

SENATE PASSES BATTERED LENDING BILL, SLASHED BY MORE THAN BILLION DOLLARS

AAA HEADS AGREE TO CALL TOBACCO PARLEY IN WEEK

Georgia Growers Assured Buyers, Producers' Meeting Planned in Move To Bolster Leaf Prices.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—

After a meeting here today with a delegation of tobacco growers from Georgia and other southern states, officials of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, agreed to call a conference next week between buyers and producers with a view to taking some positive action looking to an improvement in current price quotations.

The conference, it was announced, will be called by J. B. Hutson, assistant administrator of the AAA, with buyers and producers of the tobacco-growing states urged to meet in Washington to decide upon a crop control program for 1940.

At the same time, it was said, an effort will be made at the conference to devise some means of assisting the growers to withhold part of the present crop until better prices are secured.

4 Other States Represented.

Representatives of four other southern tobacco-growing states, Florida, Virginia and the two Carolinas, joined the Georgia delegation in conferences during the day with AAA officials.

Tonight they adopted a three-point program designed to increase tobacco prices.

The program calls for:

1. Passage by congress before adjournment of amendments to the agricultural adjustment act to permit an early marketing quota referendum.

2. A conference here next week between growers and tobacco buyers to agree upon a price for this year's crop and curtailment of 1940 production.

3. A referendum to be held as soon as possible on flue-cured tobacco marketing quotas for the 1940 crop.

It was the consensus of the Georgia group after attending the meetings that no action should be taken looking to closing of the state markets. Considerable discussion had been given this proposal during the conference with Governor Rivers in Atlanta before the state representatives came to Washington.

"We decided it would be disastrous to the growers to close the warehouses and stop further sales for the present," H. L. Wingate, one of the delegates, said. "All the Georgia growers attending the meetings here today were of the same mind after talking with AAA officials."

Wingate said a date for the con-

Can't Tell Which Car Is Whose in Georgia

By LUKE GREENE.

Complaints against Georgia's method of registering automobiles, trucks and other motor vehicles yesterday brought the disclosure that 29 states have title laws which require the owner of a vehicle to establish conclusive ownership before being issued a license tag and that Georgia has no provision in its law that definitely establishes ownership.

Investigation developed that in Georgia it is possible for an entirely innocent person to be brought before the law to prove his innocence of responsibility in an automobile accident involving death. This is due to the fact that persons owning automobiles have been found to have registered the cars in names picked at random from directories.

It has been disclosed that bootleggers engaged in rum-running have registered the cars they drive on the names of respectable persons.

There have been instances in which hit-and-run drivers turned out to be fictitious persons with cemeteries for addresses. The Oakland cemetery proved to be the address in one such case.

Cases have arisen in which innocent parties were involved in damage suits because names or addresses other than those of the real owners were given in registration.

Instances have been brought to light in which law enforcement officers were held up in their investigations of accidents or crimes because they got on the wrong track as a result of improper registration.

E. T. Williams, chief clerk in charge of the state motor vehicle division, said the law in Georgia requires only the filing of an application in which the applicant swears he is the owner of the vehicle. This does not necessarily establish conclusive proof of ownership, Williams said.

In many states, Williams explained, the law requires the owner to produce a certified bill of sale. He then is given a state certificate of title for which there is an extra charge.

Describing Georgia's system of registration as one of the simplest, Williams said:

MITCHELL ACCUSED AS TRUCE BREAKER BY GLOER HAILEY

More Constructive Action and Less Conversation in Fulton Welfare Department Is Urged.

Verbal guns in the row over unemployment relief in Fulton county continued to boom yesterday as Commissioner Gloer Hailey, chairman of the county commission's alms and juveniles committee, replied to William E. Mitchell, chairman of the Fulton county board of public welfare.

The Hailey letter to Mitchell was dispatched in answer to one Mitchell wrote Saturday, and by inference at least charged Mitchell with breaking a truce pact between the commission and the welfare board reached in a conference about three weeks ago when it was decided that the two groups had no real quarrel and an exchange of letters would cause the dove of peace to reign over differences about administrative methods.

"Less Conversation."

Hailey's reply was accompanied by his oral statement that "we who pay the bill would like to see some constructive action and less conversation in the welfare department."

Hailey said the welfare board chairman had attempted "to ring in a lot of emotion by picking isolated cases," and in his communication to Mitchell he said "frankly I cannot reconcile same (the first four paragraphs of Mitchell's letter) with the statements made by yourself and Mr. Otley (John K. Otley Jr., member of the welfare board)."

Good Results.

Hailey expressed the opinion that the medical examination of relief clients by county physicians and a grand jury investigation were productive of good results despite Mitchell's different opinion.

He also branded citation of isolated cases as "unstatesmanlike in their subtlety towards an attempt to mould public opinion in its favor."

Contending that a voluminous research of cases criticized by county physicians was prepared by department of public welfare employees he branded the employees as "your defense attorneys."

"In so far as I am concerned, I do not care to continue this controversy before an enlightened

FULTON EMPLOYEES' CAR PLAN DRAFTED

Sliding Scale Expense Account Based on Mileage, Pegged at 5 Cents a Mile

Fulton county commissioners yesterday established a sliding scale expense account based on mileage and pegged at five cents a mile, the amount which any county employee may collect for use of privately owned automobiles on official business.

The decision is the result of the program to sell all cars now owned by the county to the employees providing that operators shall be paid for the use of cars for official county business only, and commission members said yesterday that violators of the order "will be dealt with."

Presented by Commissioner J. A. Ragsdale, the resolution provides that it shall be applicable to all departments, including the police department, which latter provision impelled Dr. Charles R. Adams, chairman of the police committee, to vote against it.

Provisions of the Ragsdale resolution are:

1. That a depreciation allowance of 2 1/2 per cent a month be allowed per car, not to exceed $25 a month, which in effect acts to bar from county use machines costing more

Auto Workers Besieged In Strike-Bound Plant

Cleveland Police and Unionists Clash in Tear Gas Fog; 46 Persons Are Sent to Hospitals, Officers on 12-Hour Duty.

CLEVELAND, July 31.—(P)—Several hundred workers were besieged tonight in General Motors strike-bound Fisher Body plant where police and unionists clashed in a tear gas fog today, sending 46 persons to hospitals with minor injuries. Safety Director Elliot Ness announced that company officials informed him the 463 non-strikers would remain in the plant overnight.

Police lines had been swelled to 300 and Ness issued a proclamation prohibiting "riotous assembly or mass formation."

Ness said 150 policemen would stand guard throughout the night and Police Chief George J. Matowitz ordered police on 12-hour duty.

A large, milling crowd of CIO United Automobile Workers and sympathizers remained outside the huge seven-story modern brick plant which covers an area equal to several city blocks on Cleveland's east side.

Brigadier General Ludwig S. Conely, of the Ohio National Guard, appeared as an observer and conferred with Ness and Mayor Harold H. Burton on the scene.

Burton emphasized that no request had been made for state troops, and that none was contemplated.

Ness declared his proclamation curbing picketing would go into effect at 3 a. m. tomorrow, and would limit pickets to five at each gate. Several union leaders commented.

GEORGE ATTACKS 'CHANGES' IN U.S. FOREIGN POLICY

Government Shifts About To Suit Needs of Other Nations, Georgian Tells Fellow Senators.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—

(AP)—The administration's battered lending bill, stripped of more than a billion dollars of proposed loans, was passed by the senate late today and moved on to an uncertain fate in the house.

Waiting for it there was just such a combination of Republican and Democratic economy advocates as that which controlled procedure, for the most part, in the senate and reduced the program's total to $1,615,000,000.

The original administration bill had called for $2,800,000,000.

House to Get Bill.

Almost simultaneously with the senate action, the house rules committee voted, 6 to 4, to send the legislation to the house floor

GEORGE, RUSSELL SPLIT THEIR VOTE

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(P)—Georgia's two senators split their votes today as the senate approved a drastically curtailed version of the administration's lending program, George voting against the measure, Russell for.

tomorrow. Then, the subject of debate will be the version of the bill approved by the house banking committee. It, too, made several deep slashes in the monetary total of the measure, cutting the program to $1,950,000,000.

The house leadership had planned to bring up the administration's $800,000,000 housing bill tomorrow, but to make room for the lending measure, postponed action on the former. There is obviously extensive opposition to the housing bill, and many opponents contended it had been abandoned for the session.

May Adjourn Saturday.

If that were the case, it was generally thought that congress might adjourn on Saturday night. This depended, however, upon fairly rapid work on the lending bill in the conference stage if it should be passed by the house. Differences between house and senate versions would have to be reconciled swiftly by a committee representing both chambers.

The bill as passed by the senate calls for the issuance of bonds by the RFC to finance the following loans, by the RFC and other governmental agencies:

- $350,000,000 for non-federal public works.
- $500,000,000 for loans for rural electrification.
- $600,000,000 for loans to tenant farmers.

SPECIAL SESSION LIKELY SEPT. 12

Public Welfare Unit States U.S. Security Funds May Be Withheld

By The Associated Press.

Informed capital officers—somewhat cautiously—rings September 12 yesterday as a likely date for convening an extra session of the general assembly.

Revival of talk of a session coincided with a Department of Public Welfare statement that federal funds for social security benefits probably would be withheld after September 1.

Speculation also followed quickly a statement by Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, warning Georgia would owe its teachers $7,000,000 two years hence if additional revenue were not provided.

Collins said he was encouraged by reports from legislators and others that an early extra session appeared likely.

Governor Rivers, meanwhile, conferred with delegations of legislators and county leaders but remained silent on when—or if—he would issue a call.

The Governor has repeatedly said he was "ready and willing" to call a session if the legislature

TODAY'S BEST STORY

Mistake in Bug Number Grievous Some Bettors—and Bettors Too.

It was a bit tough all around yesterday in bug, or numbers, circles. Not only did disappointment rear its ugly head among the bettors—there was nothing new in that—but it backed among the bettees, which was unusual if not downright disheartening.

An afternoon newspaper erroneously gave the total bond sales figure of the day—which constitutes that day's "number" or "bug"—as being $2,593,000. This seemed to mean that $93 won. But the correct total was $4,192,000, which made 192 the winner.

No bets were paid off by the bankers on the error, as they received returns as usual direct by telegraph from New York on which all transactions are based.

They paid off, all right, all right, on the correct number—but their records showed last night they had had a far better day if it had been the erroneous number had been correct. A lot more players had picked 192 than had felt the urge to ride with 593.

The situation was lightened somewhat by the fact that it was of a Monday and there weren't nearly so many players as there would have been, say, if it had been of a Wednesday, a Thursday—or a Friday.

Bill Designed To Ban Uniforms Of Nazis In U. S. Passes House

Will Go Far in Eliminating 'Strutting' of Such Groups, Says Author.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(P)—

A bill designed to prevent Nazis and similar organizations from wearing their uniforms and bearing arms in the United States was passed by the house today and sent to the senate.

Its author, Representative Gavagan, Democrat, New York, said the measure would "go far" toward eliminating "the strutting about in military uniform of men professing foreign ideologies and striving to spread their hatred and prejudices."

Maximum penalties provided by the bill are one year in prison and $1,000 fine.

A similar bill recently was enacted by the New York legislature and signed by Governor Lehman.

STATE LABOR BODY UNABLE TO MEET 2-WEEK PAY ROLL

Huiett Blames Failure of Congress To Adopt Legislation for Present Predicament in Georgia.

Commissioner of Labor Ben T. Huiett said yesterday that because of congress' failure to adopt pending legislation the labor department has been unable to meet the pay roll of its unemployment compensation division for the last half of July which was due yesterday. Huiett said the salaries of about 200 workers, totaling $11,000 for the two-week period were being held up.

The commissioner explained that because of a technicality in the Georgia unemployment compensation act federal officials were unable to transfer funds from the railroad retirement act reserve to the unemployment compensation reserve.

"We have a bill before congress working out the technicalities which are required," Huiett said. "I talked with Senator George over the telephone today and he assured me that congress would pass our bill in a day or two. Senate and house conferees have agreed on the provisions and all we need is acceptance of the conference committee report."

The Georgia commissioner said he had paid off employees of the re-employment division out of state funds.

Bank Clearings Gain $33,800,000

Bank clearings in Atlanta increased $33,800,000 in July as compared with the same month a year ago, the Atlanta Clearing House Association reported yesterday.

Total check transactions for July of this year were $238,500,000 as compared with $204,700,000 a year ago. Yesterday's clearings amounted to $10,000,000 as compared with $9,000,000 for the corresponding day a year ago.

FOURTH DISTRICT TO VOTE TOMORROW

Four Seek Office of Late Representative E. M. Owen of Griffin.

GRiffin, Ga., July 31.—(P)—Voters of the fourth congressional district will select a congressman tomorrow to succeed the late Representative E. M. Owen, of Griffin.

Candidates who wound up their campaigns today for votes in the general election tomorrow were: Edgar Blalock, of Griffin, secretary to Representative Owen for six years; A. Sidney Camp, assistant United States attorney who resides at Newnan; Louis C. Clark, clerk of the Meriwether superior court at Greenville; O. M. Duke, of Flovilla, Republican.

There are 15 counties in the district, and in the last congressional race, September 14, 1938, some 31,000 votes were cast. Observers predicted a considerably smaller vote tomorrow.

ARMY SERGEANT'S DAUGHTER MISSING

Girl, 16, Sought in Atlanta After Disappearance.

A pretty 16-year-old daughter of an army sergeant, just returned from duty in the Canal Zone, was sought in Atlanta last night after her disappearance from Fort McEllan, Annapolis, Md.

The girl, Elsie Metcalfe, child of First Sergeant M. G. Metcalfe, was described as being 5 feet 2 inches tall, weighing 114 pounds, having dark hair and gray eyes and wearing a yellow sweater and skirt.

On her mother's insistence two companies of soldiers searched the fort reservation yesterday but without avail.

Techwood Extension Plans May Be Abandoned

O'Keefe Principal Seeks To Close Street Between Sixth and Eighth for Playground Site.

Plans to establish Techwood drive as a major artery to relieve Spring street congestion will be abandoned, it was learned yesterday, if a proposal to close Techwood from Sixth street to Eighth street is approved by the city planning commission and the city council. The request was made by S. M. Hastings, principal of O'Keefe Junior High school, who seeks the area as a playground.

A companion measure also seeks to close Eighth street from Techwood drive to Fowler street.

For many years civic organizations and leading citizens have urged the extension of Techwood drive in order to expedite the flow of traffic and to relieve parallel arteries.

At the present Techwood drive is paved to Sixth street, and is graded now as far as Sixteenth street. If the stretch is closed, the only way to make the extension would be to proceed out other streets or take a circuitous route, which in effect would nullify the project, it was claimed.

Councilman Howard Haire yesterday said nothing should be done to prevent the "early extension of Techwood drive—one of the most needed projects in that section of Atlanta."

The measure already has the approval of the public works committee of city council, but Councilman George B. Lyle, committee chairman, who signed the measure when it was presented to his committee, struck his approval from it after the objections.

Among other matters which will face the zoning body tomorrow will be petitions to close stretches of Fowler, McAfee, Gresham, Orchard, Lovejoy, Venable, Pine, Mills and Hummick streets and Merritts avenue for the construction of the Clark Howell housing project.

SUSPECT ARRESTED IN ADCOCK SLAYING

'Long Distance Detecting' Leads to Seizure of Detroiter.

"Long distance detecting" was credited yesterday with the arrest of a second suspect in connection with the murder of T. W. Adcock, Laurel avenue grocer, in January, 1938.

A negro whose name was given as Willie Jenkins is being held at Detroit, Mich., and Detectives M. V. Moss and L. T. Bullard, are en route there to return him for questioning.

Jenkins was named, as the man who fired the fatal shot, in a confession Moss obtained from Charlie Anderson, another suspect being held in connection with the same case.

Learning that he was supposed to be living in Detroit, the two officers tried but failed to get the city or the county to finance a trip to look for him. As a compromise they personally paid the expenses of a negro who knew Jenkins to go to Detroit and find him. Detroit police were called in to make the arrest. Two other suspects still are being sought.

REPORT AMERICAN HELD IN NAZI CAMP

BERLIN, July 31.—(P)—The United States consulate general waited tonight for an official check on a report that a young American woman was being held in the Dachau concentration camp near Munich on a charge of carrying on anti-Nazi propaganda.

Although the economy bloc has beaten almost two to one on the question of final passage, the reductions made in the bill represented the group's greatest triumph since the New Deal began.

In the first place, President Roosevelt asked for a program totaling $3,000,000,000, including a half-billion dollars for foreign loans. So great did the opposition to some provisions become that, when the measure was introduced by Senator Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, the total had dropped to $2,800,000,000. Then, the senate banking committee took the measure in hand and pruned another $310,000,000 from it, so that it went to the senate floor carrying $2,490,000,000. Thus, by comparison with the original program.

asked by the President, the bill enacted today had been cut by $1,445,000,000.

Administration spokesmen advanced the program as a stimulus to business, arguing that it would produce no increase in the deficit or the public debt. This statement was repeatedly and bluntly challenged by the economy group. Its members contended that, since the bonds floated by the RFC bear the guarantee of the government, the government's obligations would actually be increased. They called the plan, in some instances, a deceptive method for increasing the national debt above the $45,000,000,000 maximum imposed by congress. They disputed, too, the contention of the administration that the loans would be repaid, in any considerable amount.

In the senate, a coalition of Republicans and Democrats, which has controlled procedure for the most part, failed in an effort to reduce the measure's $100,000,000 for the Export-Import Bank to $25,000,000. It did, however, succeed in cutting the amount to $75,000,000, and did so with the help of the administration leader, Senator Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, the author of the bill.

In an effort to stem the revolt which had already resulted in lopping $850,000,000 from the measure, Barkley himself offered the $75,000,000 figure as a compromise. The economyites were not to be satisfied by compromise, however, and, with Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, leading the contest, insisted upon cutting the figure to $25,000,000. They lost on this proposition, 4 to 35.

George Attacks.

Debate on the item for the Export-Import Bank developed into a discussion of that institution's activities as a stimulant of foreign trade. The authorization proposed was intended to be loaned to other countries by the bank for the purchase of American products.

Senator George asserted that American foreign policy had been changed to suit the needs of foreign governments through the proposed Export-Import authorization.

"In the face of a declaration that we oppose barter," he shouted, "we have become a barter nation. In the face of a declaration against subsidies, we have become a subsidy nation. In the face of a declaration against dumping, we have become a dumping nation."

"We have changed our whole policy. If the change is for the benefit of the American people, all well and good, but let's say so. If the change is for the benefit of some other country, let's say so."

Barkley said Jesse H. Jones, administrator of the federal lending agency, had testified that the full amount proposed was needed for the program, that the Export-Import Bank did not intend to make a profit from loans to Latin America, and that the money was advanced in the manner of "a big brother to a little one."

"If anything can be called dollar-diplomacy, this is it," Taft retorted. "If the only way we can get the good will of these nations is by paying out gold, that is dollar diplomacy. In return for the loans, we will get some pieces of paper, no good will and no permanent political advantage."

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, said he was concerned, lest the money loaned through the Export-Import Bank be made to foreign governments for governmental uses, and Taft asserted that foreign governments were asking for loans.

"We've said 'Come and get it,'" put in Senator Johnson, Republican, California.

Senator Clark, Democrat, Missouri, objected to the authorization because he feared, he said, that the loans would be used to facilitate the exportation of munitions and other implements of war. Barkley replied that there was no intention to do so, but that he could not give him an absolute assurance on the question.

In the end, Barkley accepted an amendment which specified that the money loaned must all be spent for the purchase of products of the United States.

New Rail Aid.

With a proposed $350,000,000 authorization for the RFC to buy railroad equipment for lease to the carriers stripped from the bill, Barkley got the senate's approval of another approach to rail aid. On a voice vote, it accepted an amendment increasing the amount which the RFC may lend the railroads under existing law from $350,000,000 to $500,000,000.

Barkley told the senate the proposal made no increase in the amount carried by the bill. It did not, he said, increase the borrowing authority of the RFC, but only the sum it could lend to the railroads. The RFC, he explained, had only $80,000,000 uncommitted of the $350,000,000 authorization originally given to it.

In the house during a discussion by Chairman Steagall, Democrat, Alabama, of the banking committee, of proposed loans to railroads for new equipment, Representative Cox, Democrat, Georgia, inquired:

"Isn't it true that our whole policy is leading us farther and farther into the field of government ownership?"

"If we aid the railroads we are avoiding the demand of government ownership," Steagall replied.

LENDING MEASURE VOTED BY SENATE

$90,000,000 for western reclamation projects.

$75,000,000 for loans through the Export-Import Bank to finance exports of American products.

Cut from the bill by the senate's bi-partisan economy bloc in the course of a week's intense debate were:

$500,000,000 for loans for highways and transportation improvements.

$350,000,000 with which the RFC was to have purchased railroad equipment for lease to the carriers.

$25,000,000 for the Export-Import Bank's foreign loans.

Bonds Subject to Tax.

At the last minute, the economy bloc overrode the administration leadership, too, to write into the measure a provision that the bonds issued by the RFC should be subject to state and federal income taxes. Many speculated whether this might not have a restrictive effect upon the program, because to obtain the money for the loans the RFC would have to float taxable bonds in competition with tax-free government securities.

Although the economy bloc has beaten almost two to one on the question of final passage, the reductions made in the bill represented the group's greatest triumph since the New Deal began.

In the first place, President Roosevelt asked for a program totaling $3,000,000,000, including a half-billion dollars for foreign loans. It did not, he said, increase the borrowing authority of the RFC, but only the sum it could lend to the railroads. The RFC, he explained, had only $80,000,000 uncommitted of the $350,000,000 authorization originally given to it.

In the house during a discussion by Chairman Steagall, Democrat, Alabama, of the banking committee, of proposed loans to railroads for new equipment, Representative Cox, Democrat, Georgia, inquired:

"Isn't it true that our whole policy is leading us farther and farther into the field of government ownership?"

"If we aid the railroads we are avoiding the demand of government ownership," Steagall replied.

How Senators Voted On Lending Measure

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(P)—The vote by which the senate approved late today a drastically curtailed version of the administration's lending program:

For the program (52):

Democrats—A. D. A. M. S., Bankhead, Barkley, Bilbo, Bone, Brown, Byrnes, Chavez, Clark, Ellender, Gillette, Guffey, Hatch, Hayden, Herring, Hill, Hughes, Johnson of Colorado, Lee, Malone, McCarran, McCellar, Mead, Miller, Minton, Murray, Neely, O'Mahoney, Pepper, Pittman, Radcliff, Russell, Schwart, Schwellenbach, Sheppard, Slattery, Smathers, Stewart, Thomas of Oklahoma, Thomas of Utah, Truman, Wagner, Walsh, Wheeler—46.

Republicans—Borah, Nye—2.

Progressives—La Follette—1.

Farm-Labor—Lundeen, Shipstead—2.

Independent—Norris—1.

Against the program (28):

Democrats—B. L. W., Burke, Byrd, Clark of Missouri, George, Gerry, Holt, Lucas, Smith, Tydings, Van Nuys—11.

Republicans—Austin, Bridges, Capper, Danaher, Davis, Frazier, Gibson, Gurney, Hale, Holman, Johnson of California, Lodge, Reed, Taft, Townsend, Vandenberg, White—17.

asked by the President, the bill enacted today had been cut by $1,445,000,000.

Administration spokesmen advanced the program as a stimulus to business, arguing that it would produce no increase in the deficit or the public debt. This statement was repeatedly and bluntly challenged by the economy group. Its members contended that, since the bonds floated by the RFC bear the guarantee of the government, the government's obligations would actually be increased. They called the plan, in some instances, a deceptive method for increasing the national debt above the $45,000,000,000 maximum imposed by congress. They disputed, too, the contention of the administration that the loans would be repaid, in any considerable amount.

In the senate, a coalition of Republicans and Democrats, which has controlled procedure for the most part, failed in an effort to reduce the measure's $100,000,000 for the Export-Import Bank to $25,000,000. It did, however, succeed in cutting the amount to $75,000,000, and did so with the help of the administration leader, Senator Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, the author of the bill.

In an effort to stem the revolt which had already resulted in lopping $850,000,000 from the measure, Barkley himself offered the $75,000,000 figure as a compromise. The economyites were not to be satisfied by compromise, however, and, with Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, leading the contest, insisted upon cutting the figure to $25,000,000. They lost on this proposition, 4 to 35.

George Attacks.

Debate on the item for the Export-Import Bank developed into a discussion of that institution's activities as a stimulant of foreign trade. The authorization proposed was intended to be loaned to other countries by the bank for the purchase of American products.

Senator George asserted that American foreign policy had been changed to suit the needs of foreign governments through the proposed Export-Import authorization.

"In the face of a declaration that we oppose barter," he shouted, "we have become a barter nation. In the face of a declaration against subsidies, we have become a subsidy nation. In the face of a declaration against dumping, we have become a dumping nation."

"We have changed our whole policy. If the change is for the benefit of the American people, all well and good, but let's say so. If the change is for the benefit of some other country, let's say so."

Barkley said Jesse H. Jones, administrator of the federal lending agency, had testified that the full amount proposed was needed for the program, that the Export-Import Bank did not intend to make a profit from loans to Latin America, and that the money was advanced in the manner of "a big brother to a little one."

"If anything can be called dollar-diplomacy, this is it," Taft retorted. "If the only way we can get the good will of these nations is by paying out gold, that is dollar diplomacy. In return for the loans, we will get some pieces of paper, no good will and no permanent political advantage."

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, said he was concerned, lest the money loaned through the Export-Import Bank be made to foreign governments for governmental uses, and Taft asserted that foreign governments were asking for loans.

"We've said 'Come and get it,'" put in Senator Johnson, Republican, California.

Senator Clark, Democrat, Missouri, objected to the authorization because he feared, he said, that the loans would be used to facilitate the exportation of munitions and other implements of war. Barkley replied that there was no intention to do so, but that he could not give him an absolute assurance on the question.

In the end, Barkley accepted an amendment which specified that the money loaned must all be spent for the purchase of products of the United States.

New Rail Aid.

With a proposed $350,000,000 authorization for the RFC to buy railroad equipment for lease to the carriers stripped from the bill, Barkley got the senate's approval of another approach to rail aid. On a voice vote, it accepted an amendment increasing the amount which the RFC may lend the railroads under existing law from $350,000,000 to $500,000,000.

Barkley told the senate the proposal made no increase in the amount carried by the bill. It did not, he said, increase the borrowing authority of the RFC, but only the sum it could lend to the railroads. The RFC, he explained, had only $80,000,000 uncommitted of the $350,000,000 authorization originally given to it.

In the house during a discussion by Chairman Steagall, Democrat, Alabama, of the banking committee, of proposed loans to railroads for new equipment, Representative Cox, Democrat, Georgia, inquired:

"Isn't it true that our whole policy is leading us farther and farther into the field of government ownership?"

"If we aid the railroads we are avoiding the demand of government ownership," Steagall replied.

George Charges U. S. Policy Shaped to Foreign Pattern

His face quizzical, Senator Alben Barkley contemplates what is left of his lending legislation, almost a stranger to its author now that the senate has had its way.

Demands That Government Act in Interest of Its Own People.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Charging that the administration is abandoning a time-worn foreign policy in so far as tariffs are concerned, and is not listening to demands, necessities and wishes of the interests of America, Senator George, of Georgia, today, on the floor of the senate, demanded that this government frame its foreign policy in the interest of its own people.

He was opposing the Barkley amendment to the $1,615,000,000 "spending" bill, which substituted $75,000,000 for the proposed $100,000,000 to be used in loans to South American republics.

Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, majority leader, offered his amendment with the proviso that no loan could be made for any purpose other than facilitating trade by way of increasing exports from the United States and foreign markets, and that all funds be spent in the United States.

Even without enactment of the Barkley proposal, Senator George insisted, "our cloth is being cut to fit a foreign pattern," and that corporations created by congress are shaping United States foreign policy to meet the necessities of other countries.

"I realize," he said after Barkley had urged the adoption of his substitute, "that I am making a very grave statement but my statement will be borne out by time and the truthfulness of it will be verified by time. We have witnessed a complete change in policy by the government on the question of tariffs. There were those of us who stood for a liberal trade policy with all the world, not with imaginary friends or imaginary foes. We stood for a policy that would break down quotas. The department of the government that in December, 1938, was vigorous against subsidies upon exports of our raw materials is now vocal and pleading for subsidies upon raw materials."

"Why? Everybody knows that $100,000,000 is adequate as a capital for our Export-Import Bank to encourage any legitimate efforts to expand legitimate foreign trade. We have changed the whole program; we have changed the whole policy. Are we changing it for America? If so, all good and well, but stand up here and say so. Are we changing it to suit the necessities of somebody else or some other nation? Say so. I have the profoundest respect for any man who says that we want to change our policies, we want to go back on everything we have stood for for the sake of aiding a particular nation, A or B, because we are against C and D, but stand up and say so."

Changes in Policy.
"Can there be any promotion of foreign trade and commerce in the vacillating change day by day of a program?" he asked. "Can there be any promotion of foreign commerce when today the State Department is against subsidies and is against barters and tomorrow is in favor of barters and of subsidies?"

Senator George then let it be known that he had no sympathy whatever for any totalitarian state on the face of the earth, but rather, that he had a close attachment and love for America.

U. S. RENEWS FIGHT ON MEDICAL GROUPS

Justice Department Appeals in Ruling Against Anti-Trust Indictment.
WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP)—The Justice Department appealed today from a United States district court ruling which set aside an anti-trust indictment against the American Medical Association, three member organizations and 21 individuals.

The appeal was filed in the United States circuit court of appeals by Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold and United States Attorney David A. Pine. The Justice Department said it still was possible that the case would be appealed directly to the supreme court.

The government made a seven-point attack on the ruling by Judge James M. Proctor, of district court. It contended he erred in sustaining the medical association's demurrer, in entering judgment for the defendants, and in interpreting the Sherman anti-trust act of 1890.

Judge Proctor held that the act did not apply to the practice of medicine because medicine was a "learned profession" rather than a "trade."

The government's appeal asserted that the court had erred "in holding that certain allegations are vague, indefinite and uncertain, and the indictment in some instances lacking material facts, and in some instances containing improper allegations."

Second Thought Costs

Atlanta Woman $700 Pin
Second thought cost Mrs. B. V. Kane, of 2513 Peachtree road, a pin containing 14 diamonds and worth $700.

"I started to put it on as I dressed for a picnic on June 9," she belatedly reported to police yesterday. "Then I decided it wouldn't be safe, and set it down on the radio."

"Next day it was not to be seen, but I just thought it mislaid. Now I believe it would be a good idea if the police would take a look around the pawnshops."

Detectives said they'd see what could be done.

EDUCATION BOARD EMPLOYEES KILLED BY SHORT CIRCUIT

F. K. Ferrell and Sammy Daniel, Negro, Are Electrocuted While Working at Disposal Plant.

Two employees of the Atlanta board of education were electrocuted yesterday morning when a portable sludge grinding machine they were operating at the Entrenchment Creek disposal plant in DeKalb county was short-circuited, sending 220 volts of electricity through their bodies.

The dead were F. K. Ferrell, of 1973 Jonesboro road, and Sammy Daniel, negro, of 347 Connally street. Ferrell was employed by the board of education as landscape gardener for the city schools, and Daniel was janitor at the James L. Key school.

Others Injured. Two other men, Richard Brown, 505 1/2 Tenth street, and Jesse Hollins, 684 Reed street, both negroes, received severe shocks, but were said to be recovering at Grady hospital last night.

The four men had been grinding sludge to be used as fertilizer on the grounds of public schools throughout the city, and were moving the machine to a new location, police were told. Tension on the drop cord through which the machine received its power apparently cut through the insulating at a switchbox approximately 50 feet away, sending the charge through the bodies of the men.

One of the negroes was wearing gloves at the time of the accident and was thrown clear of the machine by the shock. He reported that he called for help and that another negro worker at the disposal plant about 300 yards away ran to his aid and threw off the switch. The machine is the property of the city of Atlanta disposal plant.

First Aid Futile. Radio Patrolmen M. R. Dodd and A. F. Ehrig were called to the scene and administered first-aid treatment, but were unsuccessful in their attempts to revive the two men.

Ferrell is survived by his widow and four sons, Ben, Harry, Jack and F. K. Ferrell Jr. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by A. S. Turner Funeral Home.

Atlantan Completes Aerial Circuit Of Globe With Hop Over Atlantic

Dr. Wadley Glenn Finds Flying in Clipper Over Ocean 'Just Like Riding in Train or Sitting in Private Club.'

Dr. Wadley Glenn, air-minded Atlanta physician, returned to the city yesterday after completing a round-trip across the Atlantic ocean aboard the Atlantic Clipper, a voyage which gave him the distinction of having circumnavigated the world by air.

Dr. Glenn, who started piling up his world mileage in 1937 when he flew from Paris to Hongkong and across the Pacific ocean, and to Atlanta, left New York on his recent tour July 19, flying from New York to Marseilles, France, by way of the Azores. Upon docking at the French seaport, he took a plane to Paris to complete the aerial circuit.

Experience Thrills. Thrilled with his experience, Dr. Glenn expressed appreciation of the trans-Atlantic route. An accident to the Atlantic Clipper at Horta, in the Azores, delayed the homeward trip four days, but enabled the Atlanta physician to take part in fishing and whaling trips with the natives.

After the accident at Horta, Dr. Glenn and other passengers aboard the Atlantic Clipper returned to Lisbon, Portugal, to resume their homeward voyage aboard the Dixie Clipper, which left the Portuguese capital Saturday and arrived in New York Sunday morning.

Not Like Flying. Commenting on the trip, Dr. Glenn declared: "It does not seem like flying in an airplane. It is more like a train or club. There is a comfortable lounge with ample space in which to walk around. The beds are wonderful and the food delicious. Except for occasional glances to the ocean below, one would hardly think of being in the air."

Camp Highland Girls Close Season Of Outdoor Life With Gypsy Theme

Junior Y. W. C. A. Summer Outing Is Brought to Close With Traditional Campfire and Friendship Ceremonies Before Parents and Friends.

"... The Gypsy life is the life we love." So campers at Camp Highland closed the season after portraying in song, dance and pantomime the activities they have enjoyed during the six weeks' outing season.

Yesterday was Highland Day at the Junior Y. W. C. A. camp. And Highland Day is the day when old girls and new girls meet to commemorate the completion of another camping season. Money afternoon as the friends, parents, visitors and girls gathered, many memories were evoked in the hearts of former campers, while visiting parents and friends were shown the activities which occupy the 9 to 18-year-old girls' time.

Witchcraft was the theme of the celebration and campers sang a favorite song:

"If there were witchcraft I'd make two wishes... A winding road... A burning campfire..."

Activities passed in review as the campers continued their song. "Queen of the Gypsies" was Miss Grace Wilbanks, of Ocala. The narrator was Miss Virginia Collar, of Atlanta. Solo dances were given by two campers, Ann Redford, of Decatur, and Clara Bresnahan, of Augusta. Two junior assistants, Virginia Wallace and Frances Spain, both of Atlanta, sang "Little Gypsy Sweetheart."

A tradition of the camping season is the campfire and the friendship song. As they sang this song the camp and the festival were concluded until next year.

WHOSE CAR IS IT? GEORGIA WONDERERS

plest in the nation, Williams said the title laws necessitate a considerable amount of extra work. In fact, he said it probably would require about twice as many employees if such a law were put into effect in Georgia.

Williams believes owners would protest, since it would be much harder to register an automobile under a title law. In the case of a second-hand car, he said the title might have to be traced through several owners.

Williams is of the opinion that the number of wrong or fictitious names and addresses presented to the vehicle division is small. The majority of stolen automobiles, he believes are not registered at all.

Florida Law Cited. Citing Florida as a state in which the title law operates, Williams said a $1 fee was charged for a certificate of title.

"A law similar to that in Florida might solve the problem of stolen automobiles to some extent but whether it's worth the amount of extra trouble I don't know," Williams said.

"The title system undoubtedly would be unpopular with the vehicle owners until they got acquainted with it," he continued. "It is a simple matter to register an automobile in Georgia, yet some folks now think they have to do too much."

Three files are now kept on each of the 457,060 vehicles in the state. One file keeps a record by name, another by license number, and another by motor number. Under this system the motor vehicle division may trace the name in which the car is registered in any one of three ways. There is no proof, however, that the name is not fictitious or the person possessing the car is the same as that under which it was registered.

Would Get Number. Suppose, for example, that a law enforcement officer comes upon an abandoned automobile. In such a case he would not know the owner. However, the car might have a license number and he could look up the name with this number. If there was no license number he could still check the name by getting the motor number.

The Georgia motor vehicle division maintains a 24-hour service to give information on vehicles to law enforcement officers in Georgia as well as the United States. Many calls come in after midnight, Williams said.

Although Williams would not say which system he thinks is best, he said it was a question of whether owners demanded simplicity or conclusive evidence of ownership.

SPECIAL SESSION LIKELY SEPT. 12

Continued From First Page. evinced a desire to "do its job." Sentiment Shifts. Some pulse feelers, who a month ago admitted reconvening appeared "far away," said yesterday sentiment appeared to have shifted toward reconvening sometime in September to consider raising more revenue for the schools.

Suggestion of difficulties in meeting requirements of the federal social security board in paying "adequate benefits" to old-age pensioners, dependent children and needy blind also was seen as likely to become a factor in the legislative picture.

Meanwhile, retrenchment in state government activity continued. It was noted the entire month of July passed without a single highway contract letting, and none yet advertised for August. Lettings usually are announced two weeks or more in advance.

PATROLMEN TO GET FIRST AID AWARDS Red Cross To Give 'Instructors' Certificates.

First Aid 'certificates' will be awarded to 34 State Highway patrolmen, it was announced yesterday by Ernest Scott, chairman of First Aid for the Atlanta Chapter of the American Red Cross.

These instructors' certificates are awarded only to those who satisfactorily complete the Red Cross training necessary to become qualified instructors.

Dr. John E. Mulherin, representative from Washington, D. C., conducted the class under the direction of the local Red Cross office.

Mount Gilead grounds are situated nine miles from Atlanta, near Ben Hill. Supervising the meetings will be Dr. W. G. Henry, district superintendent.

Allen told that Allen had fired at her when she attempted to flee after Chief Dickey appeared. The girl also told of alleged instances of Allen's improper relationships with her over a period of several months.

Allen told Chief Austin B. Price, of Lexington that "at least 1,000 shots were fired but I only shot three times." The retired farmer said "most of the shots were fired by drunken people in the mob."

Georgia's Sales of Tobacco Hit $3,985,575.62 Total

Georgia tobacco sales last week amounted to $3,985,575.62 in the 15 market centers, averaging 14.75 cents for 27,024,786 pounds.

The official figures on 64 warehouses in the state, compiled yesterday by the State Department of Agriculture, covered four days of the 1939 auction season.

They compared with the two days of sales in the first week of last year, when 14,097,350 pounds sold for $3,771,482.55 to set an average price of 26.75 cents.

AAA HEADS AGREE TO CALL PARLEY

ference between buyers and growers to be called by Assistant Administrator Hutson will not be set until the senate acts on the pending farm act amendments, but predicted that it would come around the middle of next week.

Following the discussions today all members of the Georgia group except Wingate returned to Atlanta by plane late this afternoon. He will remain over to report on developments during the next few days.

George Urges Probe.
Coincident with the announcement of the calling of a buyer-growers' conference, Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, introduced in the upper chamber a resolution asking for an investigation of the flue-cured tobacco situation. The resolution, which was drawn after he had conferred with representatives of the Georgia growers here to protest current prices, provides for a four-fold inquiry to be conducted by a special committee of five members of the senate named by the vice president:

1. Stocks of flue-cured tobacco now on hand, whether held by growers, warehousemen or manufacturers.
2. Consumption of tobacco during the past 12 months.
3. Causes of present decline in prices of unmanufactured or raw tobacco, and
4. What, if any, steps have been taken by the Department of Agriculture to stabilize the price to the American producers of the 1939 crop now coming on the market.

The special senate committee will be directed to make a report "at the earliest practical time."

Georgia Group Arrives.
A committee of representatives of Georgia tobacco growers arrived in Washington this morning for the conference with AAA officials and Georgia congressmen after a meeting with Governor Rivers and other state officials in Atlanta over the week end. Included in the group, besides Mr. Wingate, were R. G. Daniel, of Metts; L. L. Nichols, of Patterson, and James Fowler, of Soperton, and H. L. Wingate, of Pelham.

Members of the group saw both Senator Richard B. Russell and Senator George before going to the Department of Agriculture, where they were referred to AAA officials. The Fulton politician has been pledged by the two Georgia senators, along with the state's congressmen from the tobacco belt, in seeking to work out some plan for the betterment of prices.

Missile Thrown in Ball Park Hits Policeman.

A soft drink bottle tossed out of the ball park bleacher seats last night for no apparent reason landed squarely on the back of the head of City Policeman John Ector and resulted in the arrest of a Fort McPherson soldier on disorderly conduct charges.

Ector was rendered unconscious temporarily. When he pulled himself to his feet, a friend in the stands pointed out J. A. Gauge, the soldier, as the man who did the throwing. It was reported.

In addition to the disorderly conduct, Gauge also was charged with assault on an officer and being drunk. The case has been set for 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

To Check Constipation Get at Its Cause!

If constipation has you down so you feel heavy, tired and dopey, it's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat the super-refined food most people eat, the chances are the difficulty is simple—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines. If this common form of constipation is your trouble, eat Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. All-Bran isn't a medicine—it's a crunchy, toasted, nutritious cereal. And it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

The Time Is Coming.

It requires no inspired Joseph to foretell the politico-economic future in the United States, at least not in respect to one phase of government. It is as plain as an ancient copy-book maxim that, before very long, this nation will be faced with an enforced period of government thrift so drastic the recent years of wild spending will be remembered as a fantastic dream.

It is true today, just as it was true in the beginnings of history, that no man or group of men, no tribe or nation, can spend more than income and remain solvent. Bankruptcy is the inevitable sequel to spending in excess of revenue. It is a mathematical axiom that cannot be refuted.

The fight in the senate over the new spending-lending proposal of the administration, known as the splendid bill, is indicative of the near approach of a national awakening to the need for economy until it hurts. That bill will, in high probability, never pass the congress. If it does, it will be in such emasculated form it will be but a shadow of its original.

The proposal should go down to defeat. In essence it is nothing but a revival of the old-time political pork barrel, but in the billions classification. It is, too, a proposed new raid upon the tax moneys of the people of the United States, though skillfully contrived to get around the constitutional limitation of the national debt. Though the treasury deficit is now near that limit of $45,000,000,000, the splendid bill proposes to finance locally backed projects with the proceeds of the sale of obligations in the amount of $2,490,000,000. Thus the new spending would not be immediately and directly charged to the treasury. It would be, though, a national obligation, indorsed by the people, through their government, and should be listed in any system of bookkeeping. The projects proposed are supposed to be self-liquidating, but there is no guarantee of this feature and, in event they fail to pay themselves out in 40 years, the taxpayers, via the treasury, will have to make up the deficit.

The strong opposition to this bill is gratifyingly indicative of a changing public viewpoint. The congress and the people it represents realize, more and more, that a halt must be called to New Deal spending. If such a halt is not called, the nation will inevitably be bankrupt in short order. That will mean a currency woefully depreciated in value and a business panic worse than anything that has gone before.

Above all other considerations the people should make sure, in 1940, that the men chosen as their representatives, in the presidency and in both houses of congress, are men irrevocably pledged and committed to immediate balancing of the national budget. Outgo must be brought below income, and as far below as possible. Only thus can the nation begin the reduction of its national debt that must be achieved if it is to operate in the future on stable foundation.

Other considerations are comparatively minor. Really, it matters little which of the two great parties is in control nor who is elected president, if only the victorious party or the winning candidate launch, immediately after taking office, a policy of economy that will make thrift the national watchword, instead of the illogical 'spending for prosperity.'

America must, quickly, tighten her belt, go, perhaps, on shortened rations and exercise fullest economy until a proper balance between income and outgo, between debt and resources, is established.

The sooner that belt is taken up several notches, the better.

We can't argue with Michigan's governor over what he saw in New York's dens of gulld-vice. But a wolf in sheep's clothing would look silly in this weather.

Back in the home town, a serving of less than six ears of corn would have been hours d'oeuvre, if we had known about hours d'oeuvre.

A Texas saloonkeeper now sells beer by the hour, at 60 cents a head, later, maybe, a monthly rate will be fixed for the permanent guest.

As it seems that we'll get into war if we abandon neutrality, and war will come to us if we don't, the matter takes some thought.

Roosevelt Library

After bitter, five-hour, pyrotechnic debate—the fireworks of which included some sizzling hot name-calling—the Roosevelt library bill has become law. With passage of the measure by the house, by a vote of 221 to 124, President Roosevelt has set another precedent. In this instance, however, even his severest critics cannot help but admit there is much merit in the idea of leaving a complete record of the President's public career, available under one roof, in this case a special library on the Roosevelt Hyde Park estate.

Last December President Roosevelt, after consulting with historians, announced he intended to leave a record of his public career, for the purpose of making up a source-material collection relating to a specific period in our history. The President said that when he left the White House he would give to the federal government all his correspondence, state papers, pamphlets, books, historical prints and paintings.

Now that the bill has become law, it marks the first time the official and unofficial papers of a United States president will have been preserved as a unit. Hitherto many presidential papers have been destroyed completely, or at least in part. Other papers and documents rest in libraries scattered over the country, principally those of historical societies or the private libraries of descendants of the presidents. Thus far, the Library of Congress has spent $187,000 acquiring what at best were mere fragments of the vast collections.

In the house debate some objectors to the proposal charged President Roosevelt sought to erect a "memorial" to himself. That the bill finally passed proved that most of the legislators do not hold this view, but believe that F. D. R. is making a genuine contribution to Americana. Future historians are sure to take this view.

Mars Comments

Are they saying, on Mars?
These earth people, silly rotters, have been peeping through some funny-looking tubes at us, trying in their feeble way to find out what makes Mars tick. They aimed some kind of a noise beam at us, and it hit a man near the old ruins down by that last canal we covered over. He said it tickled him and had some funny earth language that sounded like "little bittie fittie." Our learned men said that sounded like something earth people say in what they call "nut houses."

It is all very annoying and rather infantile for earthmen to try to find out things the way they're doing, when we've been trying to get them to understand for years we want to live alone and like it. What have they got that we haven't? Somebody heard the other day they'd spent a million dollars trying to find out whether we had any chlorophyll, which sounds bad, almost as bad as it was when that radio guy accused us of invading earth near a place called New York. Don't they know an advanced civilization like ours does not know anything about invasion, that we don't kill people as they do in their silly wars? They even blamed earthquakes on us, when we are 36,000,000 miles away from them.

Why, oh, why can't we make earth men understand they can't go along being the peeping toms of the universe. We don't sneak around looking at them, not that we would want to, horrible looking as it is with all that fighting and squabbling going on. We oughta send somebody to give them the low down and tell them how to get that Utopia they've been looking for, and that prosperity that's been hiding around the corner so long, and what to say when that guy called Franklin says "we planned it that way" and goes ahead planning something else so they can't keep track of him. Don't know, though, he'd probably talk him into borrowing money to dig another canal just when we've got 'em all covered up. He's been talking them into bankruptcy down there.

But if anybody does go, have him drop by and see that blonde I pointed out on Peachtree street in Atlanta and ask her to come up and see me sometime.

The situation gives the best of them pause. Even a Boy Scout is lost nine days in the Maine woodland, while the wilderness is filled with messiahs walking in circles.

Some think war waits only on the bringing in of Europe's wheat harvest, when the scythe can be handed back to the grim reaper to do his stuff.

Editorial of the Day

COTTON HIGHWAYS

(From The Houston Post.)

You've heard of Tobacco Road, but what about a cotton highway? Dallas county is building a cotton-reinforced road as an experiment, and if it comes up to expectations a new major outlet for Texas cotton may result.

The material is prepared in the form of six-foot strips of heavy textiles. It is laid like a carpet and nailed to a rolled base of asphalt and gravel. Another layer of asphalt is poured over the cotton and then covered with gravel and rolled again, according to the "inverted topping" method. This cotton batting is supposed to serve much the same purpose as does the wire screening or lath in a plaster or concrete house, holding the asphalt together and keeping the shoulders from cracking. Engineers of other states have estimated that the cotton reinforcement will make the road last three or four times as long as it would without the treatment. It takes seven bales to the mile and makes the road cost from $500 to $700 per mile extra.

Mississippi and North Carolina have tried this plan and found it successful thus far, although of course more time is necessary to determine accurately its efficacy. Road builders will watch the Dallas county experiment with keen interest, and if it extends the life of the road as much as is promised, a new market for surplus American cotton will be created and at the same time the ultimate cost of highway construction should be reduced materially.

The Texas legislature recently appropriated $10,000 to be awarded to anyone who conceives a new use for cotton whereby 100,000 bales are consumed. Myriad plans have been proposed by seekers of the prize from all over the United States. The road reinforcement plan should be offered in the competition, if it hasn't already been offered. At seven bales to the mile it would require only about 14,286 miles of road to consume 100,000 bales.

THE CAPITAL PARADE FAIR ENOUGH

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

STRENGTH TEST IN VIRGINIA WASHINGTON, July 31.—A preliminary test of relative strength between the two wings of the Democratic party will take place in Virginia today. The event will be a mere primary for members of the state senate and house of delegates. But, in a fair number of contests, the issue between candidates has been allegiance to Virginia's governor, James H. Price, who has hopefully played along with the White House, or to Virginia's junior senator, Harry Flood Byrd, whom the President dislikes as much as any man in public life.

If the outcome proves that either the Byrd or Price organization is markedly stronger, it will cast considerable light on the future trend of the south. Light is needed, for similar divisions of political allegiance are now almost universal in the democracy's ancient stronghold.

Under the circumstances, you might suppose that Harry Byrd would have gone home to do battle for his own predominance in his state's affairs. You would be wrong. He has passed the last week, as he has passed literally many months in the last five years, fighting a presidential spending bill. Government economy is his passion, and it would need the last judgment itself to drag him from the senate floor when a spending bill is up.

In 1934 he was the first Democrat in the senate to speak out at length and in public against the President's spending policy. He showed the same lonely obstinacy in 1935. Since then, he has gained allies, and lost none of his determination. The spotlight has been turned on more dramatic figures, like the friend he reveres, Carter Glass, or on men like James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina, or Alva Adams, of Colorado, whose official positions in the senate make them the leaders of the anti-spending bloc. Byrd is always in there plugging, with a peculiar, angry, pertinacity more typical of New England than the easy-going south.

UNTRADITIONAL VIRGINIAN A puzzling man, Harry Byrd authentically derives from one of Virginia's almost legendary great families. "Westover," his forebears' magnificent place, may still be seen on the James river. Indeed, he even wears the hallmark of his origin, in the chunky build and rough, feshy nose like a purely American portrait, which you only see in bare throwbacks to the old south English stock.

Yet you will look in vain for the traditional Virginia decor in the past of Harry Byrd. He is, in fact, strictly a self-made man, and proud of it. At the age of 15 he left school and went to work, becoming the owner and editor of the Winchester Star, a bankrupt paper handed to his lawyer-father for a bad debt. He made a go of the Star, and, before he had become a voter, he was a large apple grower and a promising politician. He had to wait for his first apple orchard to be leased from other men. Now his 4,000 acres and 175,000 trees belong to him, making him the largest apple grower in the United States, and, besides being senator, he can boast of being the man who rebuilt the government of Virginia.

He went to the state senate in 1915, when he was 28. He scarcely opened his mouth in Richmond until the early twenties, when it was proposed to mortgage the state of Virginia for a lavish road system to take his place among the Winchester city fathers, and his first apple orchards were leased from other men. Now his 4,000 acres and 175,000 trees belong to him, making him the largest apple grower in the United States, and, besides being senator, he can boast of being the man who rebuilt the government of Virginia.

RIGHT OR WRONG With such achievements behind him, he came to the senate in 1932. It was, for his own worldly prospects, just the wrong moment. He is one of the few politicians who frankly admit to being conservatives, and in 1933 the country was turning from conservatism. His fight for his beliefs has been solitary and frequently very disagreeable, but that only seems to depress, without deterring him. He even conducts a sort of one-man propaganda for government economy, sending out weekly reams of material, much of it, incredibly enough, since he is a senator, not under frank.

The New Dealers and liberals regard Harry Byrd as a sort of prehistoric survival, and they may be partly right. Certainly it is unlikely that such views as his will be again widely accepted, for his unrelenting conservatism is not limited to government finance. But, right or wrong, he must at least be given a quality rare among politicians—the full courage of his convictions.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

There is a fascination,

In things unusual;
But I'm far from sure

At all, my dear.

Inconsequential Have Own Charm.

A correspondent at Griffin, Ga., writes to Silhouettes on a matter of protest. Fortunately, he approves of this column as a whole, but centers his objection on some of the items chosen from the files of half a century ago for republication under the heading "And Fifty Years Ago."

He thinks the things quoted are so inconsequential as to be totally lacking in interest. As an example of the sort of thing he doesn't like, he refers to one day when an ancient paragraph stated that a policeman had lost his badge. "Such nonsense," he says, with quite good reason. Maybe he's right and, if a lot of others agree with him—well, we might try to change the tone of that department.

However, before deciding, may the defendant make a plea of his own behalf? Thank you, judge.

Newspapers Were Different.

In the first place, the newspapers of 50 years ago were altogether different from those of today. It is much more difficult to select news from those yellowed columns than it is from those of less ancient vintage.

Frankly, in the sense we understand it now, they didn't publish the news.

They were small, six or eight or ten pages at most. And, from these must be subtracted a page of editorials, and a couple of pages or so of market quotations. Impossible to quote, with interest, in a single paragraph, anyway.

The front page was devoted to what we now call foreign news. That is, news originating elsewhere than in Georgia. It consists of long and windy "letters" from Washington and London and Berlin and Paris. Stuff that would rarely be understandable without extensive explanation and context. Only rarely can you find anything of modern day interest to quote at all snappily.

Of course, very occasionally, a story broke that is quotable, and has been quoted in this column. The Charleston earthquake, for example. Henry W. Grady wrote to Charleston as staff correspondent on that one, but even he wrote in the style of his times. He wrote a 10-column long story, but the first column and a half was devoted to philosophies about Don Quixote and the windmills. You had to read into the second column to find out what it was all about, the earthquake. And the headlines weren't much help. Usually a single word, such as EARTHQUAKE in caps. That was all.

Picturesque Wordage. Frankly, I find a charm in the little, inconsequential items of that day because of the strangeness and the picturesque manner of their word construction and phrasing. Then, too, when I quote a paragraph to the effect, "Mr. and Mrs. So-and-So are being congratulated on the arrival of a charming little Miss So-and-So," it is always with the hope, perhaps, the aforesaid "charming little Miss So-and-So" is alive today, is celebrating her fiftieth birthday and will, perchance, see that paragraph. You'd be surprised how many do see such references to themselves and call, write or phone the office about it.

And I'd like to think that, by now, the quotation immediately preceding the "Fifty Years Ago" items, those which come under "Twenty-Five Years Ago Today," deal with such events—the opening stages of the World War—that I think a little inconsequential item is welcome for contrast and for relief.

And so much of the columns of 50 years ago was taken up with fiction stories, the kind of thing you now get in your weekly or monthly magazines, there wasn't much room for news, anyway.

Those old newspapermen seem to have stressed the purely personal, beyond all else. Like the best-run small town weekly papers do until this day, in fact.

What do you all think about it? Shall I fill the "Fifty Years Ago" with politics and murders and sermons? Or shall I continue to try and make it a daily panorama of the little things in the lives of the average folks of that long ago?

Strange New York. July 31.—A strange story appears in the New York Times under the signature of Raymond Daniell and a New Orleans date line. Mr. Daniell, an expert on political corruption in Louisiana, reports that Rene Viosca, the federal district attorney, warned reporters that they would be cited for contempt if they published the names of any more witnesses called before the federal grand jury in the national government's investigation of political thievery.

Some of them, at least, already had published the fact of ex-governor Dick Leche's appearance, and, I believe, in so doing, had violated a censorship established some time before, ostensibly in the public interest.

"The reason given for the censorship," Daniell says, "that publication of the names of witnesses might help guilty persons cover up their tracks."

Well, what goes here anyway? He added, however, that "in spite of the failure of the newspapers to report that subpoenaed papers had struck in high places, the corridors of the city hall and the lobbies of hotels buzzed with the news. It was whispered on the street corners and in the bars" and "one newsboy shouted the names of two witnesses, although the papers he was selling were barren of any information about it."

In View In view of the fact that federal district attorneys and judges are political appointees, in view of the bad past record of the new deal on corruption in Louisiana and, again, in view of the fact that this present exposure of rottenness involving political allies of the federal administration was started by newspaper initiative, does anyone feel obliged to believe that this censorship is imposed in the public interest? Aside from the legality of the order, which is questionable and should be challenged by an overt act by some newspaper for the purpose of a test, the claim that it was made in the public interest should be weighed against the obvious fact that it could have been made for a reason exactly opposite. Secrecy and censorship also have been used to enable guilty persons to cover up their tracks, and Mr. Viosca and Frank Murphy, himself, may be reminded that the record of the department of justice in previous charges against at least one individual involved in the present affair, is not so hot, containing as it does, the explanation that indictments were dismissed because of "a change of atmosphere."

The record of the newspapers, on the other hand, is pretty good. What were the department of justice and the interior department, both having special interests and duties in the situation and each having its own bias, to do about all this up to the time that the newspapers smelled out this dead mule and told them where to find it?

Not Above And certainly Mr. Murphy himself is a new deal politician, repudiated by his own electorate and appointed to his present job for political reasons. Above suspicion of political interest in a case involving men who have been new dealers, too, in their own crude, larcenous way, since that remarkable "change of atmosphere" Murphy, the department of justice and every other official and government department connected with this case, not excepting honest Harold Ickes, the house dick, will be watched this time and there is no obligation on anyone to accept any professed motives for smothering information.

Mighty damn funny, it seems to me, that Viosca, Murphy and Ickes, with all their young King Bradys and legal authority, couldn't smell out this further change of atmosphere in Louisiana under the New Deal until it was waved under their noses by some newspaper reporters. But let this be understood that the political circumstances of this job and the story of past performances made for unusual skepticism.

Do they mean to tell us they didn't suspect a thing until they read it in the papers? Why, you could smell that mess away here!

PEARLS OF WISDOM.
"Abundance is a trouble," says the Talmud, "but competence brings delight."
Absolute idleness leads to insanity.
"Accept no favors with which thou canst dispense."
"Accept nothing from a miser."
"The adornment of wisdom is modesty, and the adornment of noble permanence is secrecy."
"Adversity will not last forever."

Rides Again.
In Auburn, Ont., Jeremiah Taylor hadn't been on a bicycle for 50 years, but to win a bet, he scorching up and down the main street, astonishing the villagers with his agility.

Insect Calendar.
Northerners in Tarentorus, Ont., don't really need a calendar. Each month, in this district, a new kind of insect appears, and experts can tell by them how far the season is advanced.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

"GRAPES OF WRATH"—AND US John Steinbeck's novel, "Grapes of Wrath," is in many respects a shocking novel. Some of the language is shocking to a great many of its readers. The content material, I am sure, is shocking to all.

It is a story of the thousands of migratory laborers forced off the land by the dust bowl years and others "traced" off when holders of many mortgages moved the tenants and substituted large scale farming by machines.

It is interesting to note there now has appeared a book, not a novel, but a factual sociological document dealing with the same subject. It is called "Factories in the Fields." I thought Mr. Steinbeck's picture a frightful one. This nonfiction book is even more frightful. Frightful, too, was Fortune Magazine's survey of the same people, published a few months ago.

Nothing so vividly illustrates the problem of the national administration and its economists. There is something wrong with our system when a half-million nomadic workers exist in one group in one section.

They are in the nation an estimated 10,000,000 unemployed, of which about 3,000,000 are unemployable. California and the persons in "Grapes of Wrath" and in "Factories in the Fields" are far away. The United States is so large a nation that the problem of hunger and unemployment in California is so remote as to lose some of its poignancy.

Well, then, what about us? What about our own local chapter of "The Grapes of Wrath"?

"A GREAT MANY WILL STARVE" Each of Atlanta's three newspapers Sunday carried a statement from W. E. Mitchell, welfare board chairman of Fulton county. He said:

"The facts contradict and disprove the half-truths which have been given the press and public lately," he wrote. "They show how completely wrong are the accusations that dead people were being carried on the relief rolls and that a large number of people who could work were certified as 'unemployable.'"

"None of these accusations stand up in the face of the facts."

"The painful fact is that there are a great many people in Atlanta and Fulton county who will starve unless public assistance is given them. This fact must be faced. We ask the county commissioners to join with us in facing it squarely and honestly. If this is done there will be no difficulty about complete co-operation between us."

It is interesting to note that he did not say, "One or two will starve." Or that "a few will starve." He said, "The painful fact is there are a great many people in Atlanta and Fulton county who will starve."

Mr. Mitchell, who is one of our finest citizens and who does his work gratis, as do all members of the board, refutes the charges. Of those reported able to do "light work," his check showed 137 unable to work at all; 49 mothers who must remain at home to care for babies, which is much more important than leaving them alone; 92 women between 50 and 70 years of age ineligible for WPA; 13 women between 70 and 80 without resources; 37 with tuberculosis or other infectious diseases; 21 of low mentality; 24 so diseased or deformed they cannot get work, and 19 who failed to meet WPA requirements. The list of those certified as being able to "do any work" present about the same as the public wishes him to be in earnest, his life was endangered, but Ireland was so shocked that measures of relief were taken.

Shall we propose that all the poor and deformed and diseased of Fulton county be gathered together, given one good meal and then killed with poison gas? Or shall we machine-gun them? Is a concentration camp a better idea?

They will never be able, with but few exceptions, to take a proper place in society. They are sick, of low mentality, diseased, deformed—an utterly worthless lot of people in so far as value to society is concerned. Yet they are our products, they are of us and with us. It would reduce the tax load painlessly to kill them and thereby solve the problem. It would be more merciful than to let them die the slower death of starvation or of extended malnutrition. Mr. Mitchell would like to know the public wishes him to be in the matter. Shall it be machine guns, poison gas, or adequate relief?

No Business Succeeds by Giving Most Authority to the Men Who Have Served Longest

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

If there is any prospect of our country getting into serious trouble, the first duty of private citizens, who make public opinion, is to make certain that our defense forces are not crippled by rules for which public opinion is responsible.

In recent magazine article, General Johnson Hagood calls attention to an ancient rule that cripples us in many ways. He doesn't stress the point, for the purpose of the article is to praise General Marshall, new chief of staff, but the moral of the story is too plain to be missed.

Marshall, a V. M. I. man, was recognized as a military genius, but he was sent to the Philippines with the rank of a very junior lieutenant. Called on in war games to pinch hit for a general, he dictated in the field complete orders and a detailed plan for the defense of Manila—and his plan later replaced the one worked out in the course of years by the highest officers.

Back in America, still a lieutenant, he handled another difficult business so well that his commanding officer recommended him for the rank of major general and expressed a desire to serve under him. He was "assistant" to higher officers, which means that he furnished the brains and they got the credit. But he remained a lieutenant, apparently not yet qualified to command a company.

He went to France as a captain. Generals tried to take him from one another. The only truly remarkable achievement of our forces, praised by all the military men of Europe, was his work. Yet he remained in obscurity, serving on another's staff, and never was given power or opportunity to show what he could do. When the war was over, he was a captain still.

The fault is in our ancient, unreasonable and dangerous seniority rule, which gives power to stuffed shirts in congress as in the army and navy.

The rule has always been supported by public opinion, and in theory it is sound. If men have equal ability, the one with the most experience is the most capable. But a genius must await his turn, while incompetents are advanced to high rank by time alone and senile two-by-fours become committee chairmen in congress. The World War should have taught us better. Beatty, with his smaller force, engaged the whole German navy and held on like a bulldog, despite heavy losses, till Jellicoe could come up with the grand fleet. For want of Beatty's dash and daring and competence, Jellicoe let the Germans escape with losses smaller than his own, and thus lost the greatest naval battle in history.

We may have no pompous dullards in high places, nor genius in obscurity, but there is danger of both misfortune. The only safe plan is reward for merit and penalty for stupidity.

GOOD MORNING -- By Louie D. Newton

SALEM.

The 111th season of camp meeting at Salem Camp Ground, in Newton county, begins Thursday night, with Dr. C. J. Tinsley, of Sydney, Australia, as the preacher. Dr. Bascom Anthony, of Macon, beloved veteran Methodist minister, will be the morning preacher throughout the 10-day meeting, and Rev. C. S. Forrester, of Oxford, will conduct the evening vespers each day.

Major Sidney E. Cox, of the Salvation Army, will have charge of the music during camp meeting. The Salvation Army will provide band music and vocal features. Have you ever been to Salem Camp Ground? If so, I need not urge the blessings that will await your return this year. For those who have not attended camp meeting at Salem, let me put in a word of appeal. If you want to see and hear and feel the old-fashioned type of camp meeting worship and fellowship, go to Salem, August 3-13.

Many improvements have been made since last summer. Kitty's Cottage, historic little cottage in which the slave girl, Kitty, who belonged to Mrs. James O. Andrew, lived has been purchased and moved by H. Y. McCord from its original site at Oxford to Salem. It is a museum of Methodist history, containing many valuable books, etc. The women of the community have erected a beautiful clubhouse, and Druid Hills Baptist church has erected a spacious tent.

The Salem grounds and property is held by a board of trustees, representing several denominations. The trustees are incorporated. Major Robert J. Guinn is chairman of the board. With recent improvements, and others contemplated, Salem Camp Ground is guaranteed as a permanent institution for many years to come. And for this, we may well give thanks. Such institutions are vital to the life of our people.

One of the happiest features of these annual gatherings at Salem is the closer fellowship which is made possible as the people live together in the tents that encircle the grounds. It is a beautiful sight to see them sitting about the tents, talking of the common experiences of everyday life. Salem Camp Ground is one of Georgia's great assets. Let us pray that this season may bring lasting blessing to many hearts.

LOG CABIN CENTER PLANS CONFERENCE

Ministers' Institute Sponsored by Ga. Baptist Convention Scheduled Aug. 1-3.

The annual Religious Conference and Ministers' Institute, sponsored by the Georgia Baptist convention and the Georgia State College co-operatively, will be held at the Log Cabin center August 1-3. Preparations have been made to welcome the conference of ministers and church workers at the center. H. T. Sampson, director of the summer school and the Rev. R. E. Edwards, pastor of the local church, will be in charge of arrangements.

Among the visiting speakers who will take part in the program are: Dr. Noble Y. Beall, home secretary of the Southern Baptist convention; Dr. W. H. Faust, an outstanding Baptist leader; Dr. C. D. Hubert, president of Morehouse College; and Professor George D. Kelsey, of Morehouse College.

Dr. James W. Merritt, executive secretary and treasurer of the Georgia Baptist convention, feels that through these conferences a new and more realistic approach will be made to the spiritual and religious problems confronting people who live in the country.

The Log Cabin community for several years emphasized the importance of having the minister live in the community in which he serves. This community has built a parsonage here where its minister lives.

Atlanta Ends Second Month In Row With No Auto Deaths

Only 69 Traffic Injuries Recorded in City During July.

For the second consecutive month no traffic fatalities within the city limits have been recorded by the Atlanta police department, the first time in recent years such a situation has occurred.

Furthermore, July brought but 69 traffic injuries, one more than in June when fewer persons were hurt in automobile accidents than in any month since records have been kept by the traffic department.

The last fatality in Atlanta was 65 days ago—May 28—when four negroes were killed in an automobile-bus crash at the intersection of Stewart and University drive.

19 Killed This Year.

July's record of none killed and 69 hurt in 255 accidents is compared to the same month last year when none were killed, but 119 injured in a total of 249 mishaps. To date this year, records show, 19 have been killed and 560 injured. For the first seven months of 1938, there were 27 killed and 892 hurt. The total number of accidents for this year is showing a slight increase over previous years.

Credits Motorcycle Police.

Lieutenant Cuba Heath, of the traffic department, gave much of the credit for the decrease in serious accidents to city motorcycle policemen. "They are out in all kinds of weather enforcing traffic regulations," he said. "And when a person is ticketed for violating a safety law, he pays his fine and learns a lesson. Few want to come back again. That goes for safer driving."

During the month of July 7,400 city cases and 258 state cases passed through the iron door of the station lieutenant's office. Although accurate figures could not be reached late last night, it was generally believed that nearly 3,500 of the city cases involved traffic violations, with the emphasis on illegal parking, speeding and reckless driving.

100 NEW BEDS GIFT TO GRADY HOSPITAL

Anonymous Presentation the Third in Recent Months, Dr. Beeler Reports.

Grady hospital yesterday received an anonymous gift of 100 new beds, giving it the most modern equipment it has ever had, according to Dr. J. Moss Beeler, superintendent. There have been three gifts in recent months. The first two were 50 beds each and the latest gift included three delivery beds.

The new adjustable beds all were probably given by the same man, Dr. Beeler guessed, because they have all been presented through the same Atlanta law firm. At a cost of $8,000, these beds will be used in the white side of the hospital, in the wards now under construction, and as replacements for old beds.

Bolling Fails in Philly; Poindexter Blossoms With Crackers

Barons Score 3 in Ninth To Defeat Crackers in Opener, 6 to 4

All in the GAME

by Jack Troy

At great expense, this department has secured exclusive pictures showing the three stages through which an ardent anti-Cardinal fan went recently while watching Tom Sunkel blank the New York Giants on two hits. Pictures were not available on the occasion of Uncle Sunkel's Sunday triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers. Uncle Tom licked the Lippy Durochers, 5 to 2, allowing nine more or less scattered hits. It was his second triumph within five days and his third of the season. He has started only three games.

As noted, this fan is hostile to the St. Louis Cards. He pulls for every visiting team. The reason has not been made clear and the St. Louis management probably could clear it all up by awarding him a season pass.

Anyway, the first stage is shown in this section. Phineas Phan has just heard fellow grandstanders talking about Tom Sunkel's eyes (remember how Atlanteans used to talk about the same thing? Uncle Tom was either having arm or eye trouble and the worse off he seemed to be the more effective he was on the mound).

So Phineas Phan has perked up. His expression is cagey. He just knows that no pitcher with anything really wrong with him is going to do anything with those Giants.

End first stage.

"THERE'S SOMETHING PHONEY HERE."

The second stage is more pertinent. P. Phan has just sat through the first five innings imploring the Giants to do something.

"Those umpires, not Sunkel, are blind," he muttered to himself. "Or maybe it's those Giants."

His expression now registers almost complete disgust. The Giants haven't reached Sunkel for so much as a scratch hit and he's pretty unhappy about it all.

Phineas' idea about lame pitchers has taken a pretty severe jolt and except for the fact that he had paid only 75 cents to get in the grandstand, he'd probably get up and leave right now. And there wouldn't be a third picture.

But he didn't leave—and so there is.

"OH, MY HEAD!"

There was no joy for Phineas in the fact that Tom Hafe, whom Sunkel faced so much the year before in the Southern league, finally broke up his no-hitter in the eighth. Nor did he find anything to cheer about when Billy Jurgens got the second hit in the ninth.

Holding his head, he is completely downcast. He is oblivious to his surroundings. All he can think of is how misleading fan talk can be.

He had checked over his scorecard and noted that Sunkel allowed only two bases on balls. So he figured he could see the plate pretty well.

If pictures had been available of Phineas after the Brooklyn game Sunday they probably would have shown him being carted out on a stretcher. For Tom allowed only four bases on balls in that game.

So Phineas simply gave up and stopped at the nearest drugstore for aspirin.

IT'S STILL A MYSTERY.

Tom often complained about his eyes and arm last year, but it always remained a proven fact that he could see the batters a lot better than they could see him. And that he performed better when he felt he could hardly raise his arm.

Uncle Sunkel was a sensation this past spring. In fact, when it rained that day the Cards were supposed to play the Crackers, the Crackers were not unhappy. "Sunk" allowed it was a good break for his ex-mates. He had planned to have some real fun with his fast ball on a dark day.

Only once, I think, did Paul Richards ever change his mind last season about starting Sunkel because of his arm. That was in the opener against Beaumont in the Dixie series. Tom's arm really hurt him that night and Durham opened the series. The next night Tom's arm had shown miraculous improvement and he mowed the Exporters down.

So it's still a mystery why he hasn't been used oftener by the Cards. His last two outings definitely have shown that he can still see the batsmen a lot better than they can see him.

ART LUCE POLES HOMER; TONIGHT IS MEN'S NIGHT

Atlanta Drops to Third Place Under Rampaging Nashville Vols.

By JACK TROY.

Somebody better investigate right away and find out if Art Luce has Atlanta relatives who supply him that old home cooking because last night, with a mate aboard and two mates already out, Luce hit the season's first home run into the left field stands in the eighth and sent the Barons ahead of the Crackers in a tight ball game.

Then, in the ninth, with two away, after the Crackers had rallied in their half of the eighth to tie the game, Delsavio cracked a single to score a runner and before Bobby Durham, relieving Clyde Smoll, could get the side out, the Barons had three runs and a ball game. All the runs were charged to Smoll.

It mattered not that the Crackers rallied in their half, for the lowly Barons won anyway, 6 to 4, and the home nine slipped back into third place behind idle Nashville.

The Crackers were leading the Barons, 2 to 1, when Luce hit a line drive smash which cleared the railing 365 feet away. Ogorek, who singled, scored ahead of him.

BURGE SCORES.

In the Cracker half, Burge and Peters singled through the box and Rucker drove out a sacrifice fly, sending Burge home with the tying run.

Smoll had pitched fine ball but the Barons seemed to take extra heart because of Luce's inspiring smash and in the ninth they sent Smoll away. Clancy drew the first walk off the left-hand. Arkeeta sacrificed. Easterwood fanned, to make it two out, and then Del Savio singled to right, scoring Clancy. Hobo Carson, third Baron pitcher, doubled off the signs, scoring Del Savio with the winning run. Sorenson came through with a single off Durham, who relieved Smoll, and Carson scored.

HELP, PLEASE.

Carson needed relief in the ninth and Lanning supplied it. Smith walked and Manager Paul Richards, batting for Durham, singled. Lanning relieved Carson. Sperry grounded out, as did Mailho. Smith scored on the second infield out. Then Mauldin hit a line drive. Arkeeta threw up his glove, the ball miraculously stuck in the web and the game was over. Arkeeta didn't know he had the ball and the story goes that he then reached in his hip pocket and found a gold watch.

Julian Tubb started pitching for the Barons and allowed two runs, being lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth. Wolfe faced the Crackers in the eighth. They hadn't heard about the story of Little Red Riding Hood and the big, bad Wolfe was chased to his lair. Carson stopped the rally.

The whole story of last night's game was the inability of the Crackers to take advantage of opportunities. They had the scoring chances but couldn't do much about them.

The Barons collected 12 hits and six runs; the Crackers got only four for their 11.

RUCKER, BURGE STAR.

John Rucker hit a couple of doubles and drove in two runs. Lester Burge hit a triple and two singles and scored two runs. Larry Smith also hit a triple, drove in a run and scored one.

The top end of the Cracker batting order didn't hit, however. Sperry, Mailho and Mauldin went hitless.

Sorenson topped Baron hitting with three safeties, but Luce, Del Savio and Carson, the winning chunker, provided the most telling ones.

Tonight, the Crackers and Barons play before the annual men's night audience. The game starts at 8:30. A crowd of more than 15,000 is expected. Onnie Robinson will pitch for Atlanta.

Last night's paid admission was 2,503.

All Rubeling worked out before the game and is much improved. However, he has been told not to extend himself and will spend the week jogging to get in condition.

The Spotlight

By GRANTLAND RICE.

AUSTRALIA—ROUND TRIP.

NEW YORK, July 31.—It has been a matter of 20 years since we billed Australia for the Davis cup. The billing consisted of Big Bill and Little Bill—otherwise known as Tilden and Johnston. They were an oddly matched pair as they sailed in the general direction of the Southern Cross on the other side of the world. Big Bill—six feet two—weighing 180. Little Bill, total displacement 118 pounds.

But they were two of the greatest tennis players anyone has ever seen and even today Big Bill can put on a one-set show to match anybody around. Little Bill—a great forehand and the heart of two Numidian lions—Togeth they collected the Davis cup bill.

At this spot Australia believes it is about time the round-trip back to the land of the kangaroo, the koala and the wombat should be started.

Her two main collectors are Adrian Quist and John Bromwich, the two-handed swinger. Bromwich was good last year at the age of 19 or 20. His last year's added experience should make him even better for the next meeting, now only a short spell away. We have quite an assortment from which to pick—including Riggs, Parker, Mako, Cooke and others, but picking a team strong enough to suppress the Australian entry is another affair.

Riggs also has improved—but at this writing the Australians have no Big and Little Bill to handle. The downfall of Riggs at Seabright last week was no cheerful news to the United States side. Judging from what happened to Riggs and Cooke, Seabright is a rougher tennis spot than Wimbledon.

Twenty-five years have slipped by since Norman Brookes and Tony Wilding carried the cup to Australia in the most dramatic of all the matches. For guns were blazing on the western front at the time and both Brookes and Wilding knew they were to head for the battle zone immediately after the last match was over. Brookes in that test carried Maurice McLoughlin to a 17-15 contest, the Comet depending on a killing service that finally broke down the veteran.

This was Tony Wilding's last shot at tennis. He told friends before he left that his final tennis match had been played as he had a foreboding that he would last only a short time. He was killed in action a short while later.

All this happened several years before Bromwich was born. And Quist was just about able to toddle around. It's a long way to Tipperary—and just as long to the last successful Australian invasion.

The Top Man.

In talking over an all-time ranking with a number of veterans who still follow the game closely, I asked their vote on the best tennis player of them all. The count was heavily in Bill Tilden's favor. There were several markers placed to the credit of

Yarosz, Boss, Trainer Get Atlanta Trip

Victory for Brown Will Topple Leading Challenger From Ranks.

Transportation for three—Teddy Yarosz, Joe Gould and the former's trainer—was wired Monday to New York by the sponsors of the August 9 middleweight match involving Ben Brown, southern champion.

Which means the former world champion will be along presently for a final tuning up on the home grounds of the man he is to meet over the 10-round distance at Ponce de Leon with the Atlanta Boys' Club receiving all proceeds above expenses.

The usual railroad ticket demand is for two. But Yarosz, who comes pretty high, insisted upon three in order that he could bring his own special trainer here to prepare him for the contest which means so much to both fighters.

Defeat and Yarosz will be toppled from his rank as No. 1 middleweight challenger. Defeat for Brown and his long-cherished hopes of attaining the peak of his profession will be dealt a severe setback. Yarosz has fought them all, and whipped them all, just about—and that includes the illustrious Billy Conn. Ben will be up against the most baffling problem of his career in all probability, for Yarosz is a master boxer, wise in the ways of the game and possessing the poise and confidence that only wide experience and success give one.

But it should be a battle. At least Atlanteans think so, judging from the advance sale of seats.

A.W.G.A. 1st Round Match Slated Today

First round of the 72-hole medal play this month for Atlanta Women's Golf Association members will be staged this morning at East Lake course No. 2 in the form of a one-day tournament. Play will begin at 9 o'clock.

Special events, with prizes to the winners, include low gross, low net and putting. Mrs. Max Mentzer, chairman of the tournament committee, will be in charge, assisted by the club representatives, Mrs. W. D. Doak and Mrs. A. C. Sloan.

WAIVERS ASKED.

Dr. Homer Rainey, president of University of Texas, formerly was a pitcher for the Houston Buffs. The other day Houston asked waivers on him as a complimentary gesture. Shreveport claimed him. Shreveport said it can use Dr. Rainey—both as a pitcher and as president of the State University.

'JINX' FINISHES MONTH OF JULY WITH GREAT JOB

Allows 18 Hits in Five Games; Jack Likely To Be Traded.

By JACK TROY.

"Bolling just short of being able to play here stop we have no power."

The above wire was received yesterday from Doc Prothro, Philadelphia Phillies manager. And it simply means Bolling either will be sold or traded in the near future. Gus Suhr has been purchased from the Pirates to play first base for the Phils.

Not long ago the National league service bureau had the following to say about Bolling: "His first 25 games of National league baseball found him hitting .312. He hit safely in 19 of 25 games, a record which at training camp would have made him the talk of the Grapefruit belt and nomination for the rookie-of-the-year first prize."

MERRIWELL DEBUT.

"The new Phil first-sacker made a Merriwell debut June 10. He sailed from Atlanta by plane and a few hours after setting foot on Philadelphia terra firma, he went to bat in the ninth inning of the first game of a Saturday double-header with the team chief in the two-bagger which knocked the winning run across the plate for the Phils' third straight triumph over the second-place Cards."

"Except in Philadelphia, where a newcomer of such proportions arriving in a year of disappointing setbacks for the home forces was occasion for splitting the welkin with happy huzzas, Bolling is still just a strange name at the top of Doc Prothro's batting order."

And now Bolling is out.

Grant Upset by Prusoff in Straight Sets; Bobbitt Is Winner

RUSSELL BEATS PHILIPPINE STAR IN HARD BATTLE

Champ Reese, Billy Gillespie Beaten; Bitsy Loses, 6-4, 6-2.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., July 31.—(AP)—Lanky, black-haired Henry Prusoff, of Seattle, whose tennis career seemed doomed four years ago when he broke his back in a fall, achieved a new peak in his comeback campaign today with a 6-4, 6-2, triumph over Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, the nation's sixth-ranked player, in the first round of the 49th annual Meadow Club Invitation tournament.

Otherwise, the remaining ranking players, from top-seeded Bobby Riggs down to eighth-seeded Sidney Wood Jr., advanced to the second round with little exertion. Riggs, who captured Wimbledon laurels last month, operated in his usual casual style as he disposed of Chester Murphy, a fellow townsman, 6-4, 6-2.

BEATS ANDERSON. Wood, contended J. N. Anderson, of Los Angeles, 6-4, 6-1, while third-seeded Gil Hunt, of Washington, D. C., eliminated John Cuddihy, of the Meadow Club, 6-4, 6-1. Joe Hunt, of San Francisco, ranked No. 6, ousted Bryan Hamlin, of New York, 6-1, 6-0.

Frank Guernsey Jr., of Orlando, Fla., the national intercollegiate champion, scored over Peter Lauck, of Princeton, 6-3, 6-3. Second-seeded Gene Mako, of Los Angeles, and fifth-seeded Elwood Cooke, of Portland, Ore., made belated debuts, Mako beating Everett, of Miami, 6-4, 9-7, and Cooke, turning back Stewart O'Brien, of New York, 6-3, 6-1.

STARTLING DEFEAT. As if the startling defeat of Grant weren't enough, club officials were still angry over the late-minute withdrawal of Frank Parker and Don McNeill. Dwight F. Davis Jr., chairman of the tournament committee, today accused the two absentees of giving him and the committee a "runaround."

After first consenting to appear in the tournament, Parker and McNeill suddenly informed the committee that they were "too tired to play," and despite all efforts to bring them around, the two Davis Cup hopefuls stuck to their decision.

In the original draw, the recalculants were seeded high, and their defaults meant a revision of the draw.

Not even Walter Pate, Davis Cup captain, could persuade Parker and McNeill to reconsider.

French Asks Phil Why He Does Not Get To Hurl More

CHICAGO, July 31.—(AP)—Larry French, Chicago Cubs southpaw, revealed today he had asked Owner Phil Wrigley a personal interview, but was not allowed to pitch more often for the team.

But French denied published reports that he had asked Wrigley for his release.

After the news of his interview with French, Wrigley leaked out Wrigley issued a statement today also denying French had asked for his freedom.

Wrigley said French had no complaints to make except that he would like to be able to work more often in order to warrant his continued employment.

The owner said he told French how often he pitched was up entirely to Manager Gabby Hartnett.

In Moline, Ill., for an exhibition game, Hartnett asked if French told Mr. Wrigley how many times he was knocked out of the box.

French, after a poor season in 1938, has started only 10 games this year. After a shaky start this spring French won four straight games, but then was knocked out of the box on several successive starts. He has won six games and lost five.

AUGUSTA WINS SANDLOT TITLE

Battey Post Nine Trounces Jittery DeKalb Barons, 6 to 0.

Augusta's Battey Post nine won its second straight American Legion championship of Georgia yesterday when they trounced DeKalb's Barons, 6 to 0, at Warren field.

The Augustans had won the opening game of the series in Augusta, 13 to 2. Their victory yesterday gave them the right to represent the state in the southeastern tournament August 12 at Columbia, S. C.

The combined hurling performances of Charlie Hallman and Genie Pereyra gave the Battey nine their victory. Hallman started for the Augustans and limited DeKalb to no runs and four hits in five innings. Then the hefty Pereyra took over. He let the losers down with two hits and no runs in four frames.

Milton Vinson, hurling for DeKalb, was the victim of poor support. The Barons erred seven times, often at crucial moments.

Frank Broyles, DeKalb infielder, led the day's hitting with three singles in four trips to the plate. Augusta's eight hits were divided eight ways.

Fielding gems were contributed by Bo Farris, second, and Horace Gasaway, the losers' centerfielder.

Augusta scored its first run in the fourth inning on Farris' single, a walk and an error by Broyles. They added another in the sixth. Cook and Smith walked. Then Cook came home when Broyles again erred.

DeKalb blew up in the eighth and the Augusta nine put the game away with four more runs. Lewis Poppell was safe on Leach's miscue. Charlie Davidson was hit by a pitch, ball and Pereyra singled, leading the bases with one out. Singles by George Joe, Chinese second baseman, and Gerry Sturman pushed across four tallies and assured the Battey nine of the state title.

PERFECT GAME. ALBANY, Ga., July 31.—When Wallace Deal, youthful Valdosta right-hander, flung a no-hitter at the league-leading Albany Cardinals in the seven-inning finale of an evening double-header at Valdosta, Saturday night, he became the second pitcher in the five-year history of the Georgia-Florida league to pitch a perfect game. And by singular coincidence, Albany was on the losing end of the other no-hitter, which was also a seven-inning go.

REDS CAN PLAY 500 BALL, STILL ANNEX PENNANT

Cincinnati Appears 'In' at This Stage; Pirates Only Approach.

CINCINNATI, July 31.—(AP)—A National league pennant for Cincinnati appeared almost "in the bag" today as the Reds, 12 games in front, looked at the record and figured they could play 500 ball from here out and still stand more than a good chance at the pay-off.

And if there was a club among seven capable of holding the current pace-setters to that low mark, it didn't show in the July averages.

Despite absence from the lineup most of the month of Ival Goodman, their extra-base slugging outfielder, Bill McKechnie's men went through July at a .759 clip, winning 22 and losing only 7 games to boost their margin eight full games and their standing 44 points to a 90-game average of .667.

PITTSBURGH. The only team that approached them in effectiveness was Pittsburgh—the Pirates had to be content with 19 wins and 11 losses, an average of .633 that lifted them from sixth place on July 1 to a precarious third-place rating of .623 where they virtually were tied with Chicago, 13 games off.

Last year's champions, incidentally, played only .482 ball from July 1 when they had undisputed possession of fourth place with a record of 35-30-.538.

Resting with other clubs today after a record-tying victory stretch of four double-headers numbered among 10 straight wins, the Rhinelanders had it figured out this way as they looked ahead to 64 remaining games:

An even break would give them a season's percentage of .597 on 92 games won and 62 lost, the identical figure by which the St. Louis Cardinals and Cubs won pennants in 1930 and 1936, respectively.

MUST WIN 46. To tie them, the Pirates with a record of 48 and 42, would have to win 46 of their remaining 66 games; St. Louis, handicapped by mound trouble of sorts, would have to jump from a July average of .500 to win 44 of their next 66 starts; injury-ridden New York, in second place a month ago, must rise from a current .533 to .718 to annex 48 of 64, while the Dodgers, who dribbled through the past 30 days at .484, would have to play .738 ball in order to take 48 of 65.

Boston played .567 ball in winning 17 of 30 contests but would have to raise the figure to .781 in the final 64.

SHADOW TO MEET SKULL THURSDAY

For the first time perhaps in any ring, two masked wrestlers will meet at Warren Field Thursday night.

The Red Shadow, who has been on a rampage, will battle The Skull, who has been knocking over all opponents at Avondale, the most unusual attractions ever billed for an Atlanta ring and has created unprecedented excitement. Fans have been clamoring for some grapple to beat these two mysterious terrors.

With the Shadow meeting The Skull, one of them is certain to lose and it is agreed that the defeated man will unmask and disclose his identity.

There will be two other matches.

Snead in Hospital After Losing Molars

HOT SPRINGS, Va., July 31.—(AP)—Extraction of two molars, which caused hemorrhage, sent golfing Sammy Snead to the hospital over the week end. The Community House hospital here said the White Sulphur Springs (W. Va.) pro was in "good shape" today, but must stay abed for several days more.

Home for a general physical checkup, Snead missed the St. Paul open tournament won yesterday by Dick Metz.

announced agreement on police measures for the blockaded Tientsin concessions, but details were not announced immediately.

Dispute over control of anti-Japanese terrorism, which Japan charged originated from within the foreign concessions, however, brought on Japan's blockade of the British and French zones last June 14 and the present negotiations.

Police and currency measures were represented over the week end as chief stumbling stones in the talks.

Japan has demanded that Britain turn over to her a store of silver, about 48,000,000 Chinese dollars ($3,840,000), banked in the Tientsin concession by the Chinese government and used to support the Chinese national currency. Japan also wants British support of the Chinese currency withdrawal.

Conclusion Difficult.
If anti-British agitation continued in North China, Chamberlain said, a successful conclusion of the Tokyo talks would be difficult.

The prime minister announced that Britain and France would send a joint military mission to Moscow probably this week to start staff talks, hoping this would help clear the way for the long-discussed political agreement.

That announcement evoked from Berlin a spokesman's assertion that the government regarded it "with serene equanimity."

As to whether Britain would follow the lead of the United States and denounce her 1911 trade treaty with Japan, Chamberlain said "I believe the general objects and aims of the United States and Britain are closely similar, but it does not follow that each of us must necessarily do exactly the same as the other."

United States Consul Samuel Sokobin, at Tsingtao, today requested Japanese authorities to

CLARK GABLE HERO AT HOME; SEIZES, DISARMS BANDIT

VAN NUYS, Cal., July 31.—(AP) Clark Gable, hero of many a brush with movie villains, modestly reported to police today he captured and disarmed a youthful intruder who confronted him with one of his own antique pistols and demanded money.

"I am sorry it happened," Gable said after turning over to officers 18-year-old William J. Broski, a Polish transient. "He's only a boy who got off on the wrong foot. I hope he gets off without too much trouble."

Gable was alone at his ranch home when the episode occurred, his wife, Carole Lombard, having gone to a studio at 7 a. m.

Then he pledged the co-operation of the commission to "face this issue (the statement made by Mitchell that some persons would starve unless they obtained aid) squarely and honestly and have no desire to see any unfortunate human being suffer."

tended he had no legal right to limit the demonstrators.

The company filed in common pleas court a suit asking limitation of picketing and a ban on violence. Hearing was set for tomorrow.

A police-estimated 5,000 to 6,000 CIO United Automobile Workers and sympathizers, wearing papier mache helmets, overturned non-striker automobiles and fought about 100 policemen as the factory reopened this morning after a week-end shutdown.

A new clash occurred last today in full view of Ness and Mayor Harold H. Burton, inspecting the turbulent strike scene. Mounted police charged the picket line to clear the way for a company car.

A brief clash followed, the crowd smashing windows of the automobile with a shower of rocks. Three men were arrested amid boos and catcalls directed at Burton and Ness.

Tear gas clung thickly over the east side strike area this morning and fire hose were turned on the crowd before the fighting ended.

Police Captain Michael J. Blackwell estimated about 300 tear gas shells and grenades were discharged. Union leaders denied Blackwell's assertion that the demonstrators had used tear gas supplies of their own.

"Public Comes First."

"In Cleveland, the public interest comes first and will be protected fully," Mayor Harold H. Burton said.

"The city will maintain law and order and streets will be kept open. No rioting or inciting to riot will be permitted."

Ness' proclamation, distributed through the strike area, said: "All citizens are hereby prohibited from congregating or gathering in groups, from engaging in riotous assembly or mass formation to an extent that interferes with public travel, excepting under permit lawfully issued."

"All persons within said area are urged and commanded to disperse to their homes and places of lawful employment and to thereby assist in the maintenance of peace and order."

Mass picketing at Fisher Body was designed, union leaders said, to "close the plant" which has operated at a curtailed rate for the three weeks of the strike, called by tool and die makers to enforce demands for a supplemental contract.

Two other Cleveland factories, Bender Body and White Motor, closed for the day when many of their workers swelled the Fisher Body crowd.

Some 300 police were summoned to the plant for the afternoon change of shifts. Sixteen persons were arrested today.

Blackwell declared no shots were fired by police, who were commanded not to fire "unless they storm the plant."

Robert Travis, CIO organizer from Detroit, accused police of provoking the trouble. Blackwell asserted the morning melee flared after the crowd threw a brick through the window of a car carrying several non-striker into the plant.

FULTON EMPLOYEES' CAR PLAN DRAFTED

than $1,000 unless the employee himself elects to stand all depreciation in excess of the $1,000 top limit allowed.

2. That a tire and tube allowance of $10 a month be allowed, to which is added $5 for oil and lubrication and $5 for repairs.

Must Keep Record.

3. That every employee given a car expense account shall keep a monthly record of his mileage on county business from his speedometer reading for the computation of the gasoline allowance which is set at 1 1/2 cents a mile.

4. Fulton county will underwrite damage done to police cars or to the car of any other law enforcement officer wrecked in a chase or in the act of enforcing the law.

5. When the allowance for depreciation, tires and tubes, lubrication or repairs and gasoline mileage exceeds 5 cents a mile, the county will not pay such excess, but will pay only on the 5-cents-a-mile basis. The only exception is damage to a car operated by law enforcement officers.

Ragsdale explained that the system is equitable to the county, employees and taxpayers. Neither would lose by this system, he contended.

A copy of the revamped program was ordered transmitted to the Fulton county grand jury which meets this morning.

Adams contended that the plan is not feasible in the police department and warned his colleagues "you'll see that it isn't and will be up here in a year asking a change." He cast the lone dissenting vote on the resolution.

THE DAILY DOUBLE

MAKES ITS THRIFTY BOW!

AN IMPORTANT date is Tuesday, August 1—the day we first offer for Atlanta's approval the Mid-day Shoppers Ticket. The DAILY DOUBLE is what we call this new money-saving innovation—and here's why:

At any time after 9 A.M., on any day except Saturday, you may board any city street car, bus or trackless trolley now using the 7 1/2-cent token fare—pay the operator ten cents—request your Mid-day Shoppers Ticket—and you have another ride coming to you (without transfer privileges)—provided only you use it before 4 P.M. the same day you get your ticket. It's there for you if you want to use it; otherwise fares remain unchanged.

You may use this ticket as a round-trip ticket, to town or anywhere else. In fact, it was designed primarily for women shoppers, who now can save one-third their fare on a trip to town and back—there and back for a dime, instead of fifteen cents. However, it has many other important uses.

You may use it when you have to break your journey to any destination—you can stop off as long as you please (just so you catch your car BEFORE 4 P.M.) and use your ticket to continue. That, too, will save a nickel.

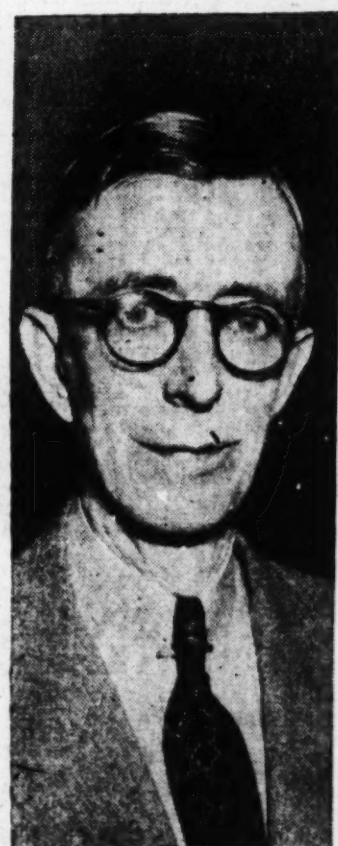

Regular transfers, as you know, don't permit stop-overs. But with a shoppers ticket, you may stop over for hours if need be, at your transfer point or anywhere else—and send another nickel plinking into the bank.

These are some of its uses; you are bound to find many more.

We believe you're going to like the daily double—the Mid-day Shoppers Ticket. It gives you a bargain ride in the non-rush hours, when service is still fast and frequent and vehicles are uncrowded. It helps those who must ride in the rush hours. It works for seven hours a day (except Saturday) and you can do a lot within that space of time. We're putting it on trial—and you're the judge and jury. If you like it, you will use it—and if you use it, it will stay.

Mary Frances Yates to Wed Henry Green in Garden at Alanhurst

Alfresco Ceremony To Take Place On Wednesday Evening, Aug. 23

By Sally Forth.

MARY FRANCES YATES, whose engagement to Henry Gerriell Green, of Camilla, was announced recently, will be the fourth member of her family to pledge her marriage vows at Alanhurst, beautiful home of her grandmother, Mrs. Joseph Richardson, at East Lake. The ceremony will be brilliantly solemnized on August 23 at 7 o'clock in the flower-laden garden surrounding Alanhurst, where a host of friends of the bridal pair will assemble for the occasion.

The selection of the handsome estate as the setting for the wedding is quite appropriate, as Mary Frances' aunts, Mesdames James H. Reeves, Howard Stillwood and Randolph Kirkland, of Newberry, S. C., all trod the orange blossom trail there.

Fran, as the bride-elect is known to her intimates, will be given in marriage by her father, Preston Daniel Yates, and will be attended by a group of her close friends as bridesmaids, Elizabeth Stillwell, cousin of the bride-to-be, will be maid of honor, and Leon Green, of LaGrange, will serve as best man.

The heavy of attractive bridesmaids will include Fran's cousin, Mary Katherine Reeves; Nellie Winslow, Florie Sisson and Ethel Green, of Albany, sister of the groom-elect. Accompanying the bridesmaids will be Henry's groomsmen, including his brother, Holcombe Green; Charles Yates, brother of the bride-elect; George Joiner, of Camilla, and Herman Barnett, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Following the beautiful alfresco ceremony, the bridal pair will be honored at a reception to be given by Mrs. Richardson and by Fran's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Daniel Yates.

Selected to assist the hosts in entertaining are the groom-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Judson Leon Green, of Camilla, and General and Mrs. James H. Reeves, who reside at Alanhurst. Julia Reeves, another attractive cousin of Fran's, will keep the bride's book, and Nina Fuller and Frances Sisson, girlhood friends of the bride-elect, will serve. A whirl of gala social affairs has been planned in connection with the wedding.

ment to the bride-elect, the first of which will be the luncheon to be given by Little Shepherd Davis on August 8. Katherine Pattillo will be hostess at a tea on August 10 for Fran, the affair to take place at her home on Inman circle.

On August 11, Nina Fuller will honor the bride-elect at a luncheon, and on August 13 Alyce Walker will give a luncheon for Fran at her home in Decatur. Louise Brown will entertain at a luncheon on August 19 at East Lake Country Club honoring the bride-elect.

HERMES JACOBS left Saturday for Nashville, Tenn., to spend her vacation as the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Shelton Sr. The attractive belle was accompanied to Tennessee by her cousin, Bert Shelton Jr., who spent the week end with his parents.

Hermes, who resides with another uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Peniel, at their home in Morningside, is being honored at a round of bridge parties, picnics and dances during her stay, and will probably be reluctant to return home at the close of her two weeks' visit.

LETTERS to Atlanta friends from Mrs. Patsy Quinney Armstrong give glowing accounts of her sojourn in Beverly Hills, Cal., where she is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Freeman, erstwhile Atlantans. Mr. Freeman, you know, is in charge of production at Paramount studios on the west coast, where he and Mrs. Freeman are counted among popular figures in film circles.

With her hosts, Mrs. Armstrong attended the premier of "Beau Geste," that popular motion picture released recently in Hollywood. The Atlanta matron also witnessed the opening performance of "Old Maid," which is scheduled as an outstanding picture to be shown throughout the nation at an early date.

Mrs. Armstrong shared honors with Mr. and Mrs. Chip Robert at a brilliant dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Thompson, whom Atlanta also claims as former citizens. Incidentally, Sally hears that the exotic orchid blooms predominated in the decorations featuring the dinner at which the Thompsons were hosts.

Luncheons, teas and dinners assembling motion picture notables are attended daily by Mrs. Armstrong and the Freemans, who also find time for daily swims in the Pacific's blue waters. Before returning to Atlanta this month Mrs. Armstrong will attend the Golden Gate Exposition at San Francisco.

Another Atlantan entertained this summer by Mr. and Mrs. Freeman was their mother, Mrs. J. H. Harris, who recently returned from California. During her visit on the west coast Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Freeman enjoyed a leisurely cruise to Honolulu aboard the S. S. Lurline.

Constant Criticism From Husband Destroys Wife's Co-operation

The young lady and her companion obviously are enjoying their luncheon served from a prettily appointed table. Silver not in use is correctly placed. The young lady is an American, as you can see by the way she holds her fork—in her right hand. Her friend is a Britisher; he lifts his food on the fork in his left hand. According to best authority both methods are correct, though it is said the European, or left-hand method is more expert. Try it if you don't believe it—but by yourself, first!

Table Etiquette Practiced at Home Adds to Enjoyment of Your Meals

By SALLY SAVER.

A pretty table and correct service makes everything taste better, or so it seems to me. By this I do not mean a fussiness over minor details and trying to do things more elaborately than your facilities would comfortably allow, or making unnecessary work for yourself. But beauty and correctness of detail as far as practicable does add immeasurably to the enjoyment of meals. Even when the family is dining alone, it is much nicer to have a pretty, though simple service, rather than doing things slap-dash. Psychologists say that practicing good manners in the home is an excellent means of discipline for children. Besides, they might have added, it makes people ever so much nicer to live with.

Simple rules for a family with one servant whether there are guests or not are these:

1. All clean plates and all dishes of food are presented and removed from the left. Usually, clean plates and food are placed with the left hand and removed with the right, although convenience should determine this. 2. All soiled plates are removed from the left, one at a time without stacking. 3. All beverages and all right-hand implements are placed and removed at the right. 4. When clearing the table the food is removed first, then the plates, and bread and butter plates, if used. A small tray may be used only for the removal of silver and the salt and peppers. 5. When offering food to diners, the maid keeps a folded napkin inconspicuously beneath the dish, with the handle of serving fork and spoon pointing toward the person to be served. The dish should be held low enough for the person to serve himself comfortably.

It is considered more gracious to serve guests before the hostess is served, and at a family dinner the children are served first, then the ladies, and the gentlemen last. At a simple dinner, after the hostess is served, the dessert is placed on the table before diners are seated.

There are several correct ways of serving meals; and it is better for you to select the one which best suits your taste and facilities, dependent in large degree upon how much trained help you have. Taking into consideration that most families have only one servant, I like the service in which the man-of-the-house carves the meat and serves this main dish. Then the vegetables are passed by the servant. However, if there are more than two vegetables to be passed, it is considered better form to have one of them as a garnish for the meat platter and served by the host along with the meat.

Using this service, the hostess serves the dessert from plates and dessert which are brought in by the servant and set before her, unless the desserts are made in individual molds or glasses. These are brought in from the kitchen on a serving tray, placed on the serving table and from there passed to the diners.

On the whole it is much better to have too few courses than too many when serving guests. Two or three courses—cocktail, main course, and dessert, are much more enjoyable to family and guests if the food is good and the service simple and pretty. Whereas more courses, clumsily served, or served with apparent effort make everyone conscious that you are being put to undue trouble for them. No one with good upbringing likes to feel that someone is having more to do because they are there.

Salt Lake City Furnishes Tub for Claudette Colbert

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, July 31.—If you want to make Charlie Chaplin really unhappy, mention one word to him—"Italy." Charlie has $1,000,000 tied up in the land of Il Duce—profits from his pictures—and he can't get it out of the country. Claudette Colbert had what she thought was a brain wave recently, and suggested to Charlie that one way of using the million would be to build a villa in Italy and live there part of each year. Charlie's reply was, "No, I would sooner lose the money."

Clark Gable will shortly be picture-teamed with Hedy Lamarr. Now they're talking. . . . The lowest price on record was paid for the story of a currently very successful movie—"Good-Bye, Mr. Chips," for which author James Hilton received only $5,000. The entire cost of the movie was under $500,000, and it will gross—net—several millions. . . . Richard Greene's romance with Leslie Howard's daughter is on the rocks. "She's a sweet child—but," Dick was telling someone. "When someone calls a budding young lady 'a sweet child,' you can bet that love is dead." "I'm taking Virginia here around—not very actively," Greene concluded.

Both Paramount and RKO-Radio were all set to publicize Maureen O'Hara, discovery and protégée of Charles Laughton, as the latest glamor girl—publicity romance, some sort of oomph title, etc.—when someone let the cat out of the bag—i. e., Miss O'Hara has just married. . . . And talking about Laughton, the set of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" has been lost by order of producer Pandro Berman, who doesn't want us to write about the grotesque Laughton make-up. Does he want us to believe it is natural? Laughton himself would like the set open, and an order to this effect is shortly expected from the head office in New York.

"I must have a bath," Claudette Colbert said after arriving at the primitive location site for "Drums Along the Mohawk" in Utah. They entered her a shower, but Claudette said "No." And when Claudette says "No," it saves time to reply "Yes." They had to send to Salt Lake City for a folding bath contraption. And as Father Divine would say—all is peace again.

Deanna Durbin has signed an agreement with the New York Metropolitan to star in an opera within the next three years. . . . Robert Montgomery has gone very social in England and is currently sojourning with the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland. Bob, by the way, will rent the famous Denham studios, following the renting footsteps of Miriam Hopkins, Robert Taylor and Rosalind Russell.

A certain continental actress is down to her last wolfhound. When she came here two years ago, the wolfhounds were used to publicize her glamor. She made one picture—a flop. Sooner than return to her native Hungary a failure, she bought a small ranch in the valley and is now selling dogs.

Shirley Temple's next picture—"The Blue Bird"—will not be ready for the cameras until September. Which brings Shirley's picturelessness to four months—her longest period between pictures. . . . That current coldness between Ann Sheridan and Richard Carlson began at the end of making "Winter Carnival," when Richard tripped Ann with his foot and she slapped his face!

Man Should Be Patient With "Inferior" Wife

By Caroline Chatfield.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

Nothing but horse sense will help me and I believe you have it. My family was a poor farm one but they believed in education and sent their children through Junior College. I took up school teaching as a profession and married a girl near our farm whose family is as good as mine except that they don't fancy higher learning. I love my wife but her ideals are not the same and I can't convert her to mine. She's not interested in anything I like.

She's crazy for spending money and lately she's gone back to work which I don't like because I have given her much more than she had before she married me and think that should be enough. I'm not perfect by any means but I am ambitious and thrifty and she's neither. I will never advance in my profession as long as I'm married to her and I won't be able to save anything. She's constantly going to visit her family who fill her with ideas I don't approve but when I suggest that we visit, my wife says there's a big to-do. Frankly I don't see any way out but to let her go her way and I mine, though I hate to give her up.

ANSWER:

My dear sir, no wife will stand for missionary work on the part of her husband. You are seeing yourself as a missionary with the gospel of ambition and thrift which you needs must ram down the throat of a semi-barbarian wife. And she says to herself, "He thought I was good enough for him when he married me. I'm the same girl so why should he be giving me this high and mighty stuff?"

You should understand why she runs home every chance she gets; she wants to be with people whose conversation is on her level and consists of something better than criticism. For the same reason she doesn't relish visiting your family who feel superior and make her feel inferior. None of us likes to be snooted.

You should also understand why she went to work; not only for the cash but for the sense of independence. She wants to be able to say to herself, "I can roll my own and if he has lost his taste for me, I can find my way around without him."

Just to see the picture clearly, suppose you had married "up hill" a wife whose family had been highly privileged and she had a Phi Beta Kappa key from an A grade college, as well as generations of culture behind her. Just suppose she was always reminding you that you were only half educated and your family not at all. Could you live with her? No, you'd want to kill her and crawl off to be with your own kind. Who could blame you?

That's horse sense as I see it and here's some more. A wife will go her whole length, and more, to please a husband who sets it up, tells her he loves her and couldn't live without her; but a balking mule has nothing on the wife whose husband low rates her and larrups her with his superiority. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Increase Ability to See At Night With Vitamin A

By Dr. William Brady.

Snap on the light suddenly in the night and there is a fair chance you'll catch some neighbor's cat fishing in the pool. For a while the goldfish mortality was heavy through the winter months, until we solved the mystery and removed the convenient platforms for cats to fish from. Now the fishes get a break and a few are caught, for they have a chance to react to the thrust if the cat has to sit back a foot from the brink. In the summer young birds and other prey keep the cat on optimal vitamin rations.

The instinctive fondness for fish is well known to everybody who ever owned a cat. Likewise milk and egg yolk. Aside from the ordinary nutritive value of these foods, the cat gets something else from them that may not be available in other foods and is as essential for the health and functional efficiency of a cat as it is for the health and functional efficiency of a human being. Guess what. Aw, shucks, I've already mentioned it. Besides, I may be penalized if I continue to harp on that subject.

If you have arrived at this point permit me to mention that, according to the United States Department of Agriculture's 15-cent publication, "Vitamin Content of Foods," (send the price for a copy to Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.), that superlative sea food, canned salmon, is perhaps the richest and best natural source of both of the oil-soluble vitamins, A and D, for men, women and children everywhere, and running almost neck and neck with canned salmon, as a source of these vitamins in the everyday diet, that other universally available seafood, canned sardines, deserve a place in every family's pantry. Of course both canned salmon and canned sardines are fine food staples apart from their high content of vitamin A and vitamin D.

The cat's fondness for fish has a good deal to do with the ability of the animal to see in the dark. Fondness for fish may explain your or my ability to see in the dark or our relative comfort or security in driving at night or our sensitivity to or indifference to the irritation or annoyance which glare produces in some persons. Again it is necessary to mention that this is due to the vitamin A intake. If the intake of vitamin A is low, there is more or less night-blindness and difficulty in seeing in the dark or after dusk or after exposure to very bright light or glare. If the vitamin A intake is high, the night vision or dark field vision is better, glare is less blinding, one can see better in the dark or in a dimly lighted place.

The red-yellow reflex shining from the eyes of a cat (or other animal or bird or a human being) out of the dark has nothing to do with vitamin A. That is another story.

Bit of Etiquette For Duplicate Player

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Dear Mr. Sharpsteen: A close friend, with whom I have played a great deal of rubber bridge, has suggested that we enter some of the city's duplicate tournaments this coming fall. We get along very nicely together as partners and would like to try our luck against stronger competition. We know nothing about duplicate. How do you suggest we get started?—Mrs. J. L. M., Birmingham, Ala.

Join a junior group of mixed players until you become accustomed to the simple mechanics of playing the duplicate boards. In brief, bid your hands as in rubber bridge, except that you are at liberty to enter the auction with about a trick less than minimum requirements in rubber bridge. As your first preparatory step, brush up a bit on the etiquette of duplicate, to avoid penalties and embarrassing situations later on.

- Here are some pointers:
1. Ask each new pair of opponents you meet in progression what system they use, and announce yours. Private bidding systems and conventions are barred. If you do not understand opponent's system ask for a brief explanation. This is your privilege.
  2. Do not remove your cards from the board until opponents are seated.
  3. Do not look at your hand until you have counted exactly 13 cards face down. Holding less, do not look at them. Call the tournament director.
  4. Be careful not to bid or pass out of turn.
  5. Do not lead out of turn.
  6. Be careful not to play the wrong card.
  7. Arrange each winning trick before you perpendicularly, your losing tricks horizontally so you may check them in case of dispute.
  8. Be extremely careful about sorting your cards. Breast your hand when playing.
  9. After the deal has been played count exactly 13 cards before returning your hand to the board. Mix your cards well before putting them back.
  10. Check your scores carefully before affixing your O. K. to the score sheet. When in doubt call the director.
- Til tomorrow.

MY DAY Optimism of Young Is Hope of World

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK.—Someone evidently reads my column. Early this morning the telegraph office called and in a perfectly normal manner delivered a message saying that a gentleman had missed his train and would arrive later in the morning. Then in a rather embarrassed fashion the office said: "We have a rather long and strange telegram. It is in paragraphs." It turned out to be not only in paragraphs, but in rhyme and a comment on Saturday's column in which I made a confession that I was held up for speeding. I won't quote it all to you, but the following lines may amuse you:

"Your car was stopped,
Oh shame, oh shame,
You'll never live it down;
That cop should be the next president,
The vigilant hound."

I think this is rather severe punishment for a gentleman who kindly reproved a lady, who was undoubtedly in the wrong.

Really good showers blessed us yesterday and today the sky is cloudy and gray and gives us the hope that we may have a really steady downpour.

Two young people who are staying with me rode with me yesterday morning and a number of other guests came to luncheon. We swam and broiled our steaks out of doors and talked for long hours. Two of the young people stayed over for supper and we were all so interested in our discussion that one of them missed the train which he intended to take. So, instead of going to New York city to take a plane for Chicago, he took a train here for Chicago, hoping he would wake up in time to get off at Cleveland, where he could catch a plane which would get him in at an early hour this morning.

The newspapers fill me with foreboding these days. It would seem that we persist in doing all that we can to stir up the very forces around us, which we profess to want to allay. Instead of acting with kindness, we seem to do the very things which promote intolerance and hatred amongst races and religious groups, to say nothing of the way we treat each other when we happen to be labeled workers or employers.

This is happening in the United States, where there is really an opportunity for leadership to create better understanding and more kindly feeling between different types of peoples. My own great hope, in what seems to me a rather baffling world, is the attitude which young people, with all their difficulties, seem to preserve. There is always a note of optimism among the real leaders and an idealism which I marvel at their being able to preserve in the present situation.

Last night I read a child's story called "The Red and White Secret," by Florence Selden Peple. She sent it to me and I have thoroughly enjoyed it and am going to send it to one of my grandchildren. It is interesting, I think, to grown people, because of the wise and rather novel way of treating children shown in the relationship between the boy and his father. I hope other people, both young and old, will enjoy it as I did.

Lost Your Girlish Figure? Don't Blame It on Age

By Ida Jean Kain.

How times have changed! We can remember when a girl was an old maid at 20 and now a woman's best years are supposed to begin around 30! And instead of thinking that a middle-aged figure was inevitable—as we used to do—we keep proving that a woman need never lose her youthful slimness.

So, if you lose your figure, it isn't because of your age. It is because you are too tired, too busy, or too lazy to exercise. When you are tired, the right type of exercise should not, however, be strenuous. If possible, they should take the form of recreation. Otherwise a few stretching exercises can be relied upon to relax tense muscles and unkink frazzled nerves. Good muscle tone is a very important factor in vitality, and the person who takes no exercise will find that she has less and less energy.

The busy housewife should plan to exercise before she becomes too tired. Between 10 and 11 o'clock in the morning is an excellent hour for her. The next best time is around four in the afternoon, if possible, following a short nap. The housewife who takes the time to relax and to exercise can keep incredibly young.

The business girl must either plan to exercise at home after office hours or to go to a gymnasium twice a week for good workouts. She can, of course, exercise in the morning before going to business, but when you are in a rush exercise is apt to be a hit-or-miss affair. Highly strung people should not even think of starting the day with setting-up exercises and this applies particularly to the girl in business. The girl who has an unhurried program of exercise during the week and who spends the week ends outdoors is best fitted to withstand the constant pressure of a career.

As for the lazy folks well, they just have to make themselves exercise. The only way to do that is to have a definite routine, which is never, never broken.

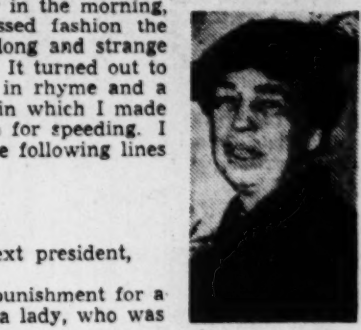

Generally speaking, the exercises that do the most for everyone are those which use the trunk muscles—they are so neglected in everyday activity. Here is an exercise of this type:

Position: Lying on the back on the floor, arms stretched up on floor overhead, legs stretched straight down.

Movement: Flex the right knee and touch the kneecap to the floor over on the left side. Return to position and repeat with the left leg, touching knee to floor at right. This exercise involves a vigorous twist at the waist, works the hip muscles, and strengthens the tummy muscles—besides giving you a thorough stretch all over. It's an antidote to settling and fatigue!

"Streamline the Midsection" with the leaflet of that name, to keep your figure young. Send a stamped return envelope to Miss Kain, in care of The Atlanta Constitution, for this set of exercises. If you sit too much of the time, send also for "The Business Girl's Daily Half Dozen."

Mouth breathing is advised for the average swimmer by a physician, writing in the health magazine, Hygeia, because it takes an expert to time exhalation from the nose properly, thus avoiding irritating the mucous membrane and danger of damaging nose and ears.

Old Artists Set High Standard Of Beauty

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin

When the Renaissance jugged the Italians out of their middle-age lethargy, the revival of ancient classic traditions came very easily to the descendants of the old Romans. So that the stirrings of what we might call this "boom" era in Italy was reflected in every type of work. The short span of years that produced Leonardo da Vinci, Botticelli, Michelangelo, Raphael, Titian and all those giants would most naturally have produced a great background for the works of art that prince and noble collected as avidly as do the millionaires among today's financial royalty.

Unequaled for Splendor.

These great artists set a very high standard of beauty for the homes of that day to live up to, while the dukes and bishops had Oriental ideas of luxury and splendor. As a result the decorators of the era left to the world such a heritage of magnificent fabrics, unrivaled murals, stately furniture, delicate glass, intricate ornaments of metal, alabaster, ivory, porcelain, leather as has never been equaled since. Oak and walnut were the furniture woods used—they were elaborately carved and often inlaid with ivory. It was a world of velvet and brocade, of sumptuous banquet tables laden with glittering crystal, gold and silver dishes, gossamer lace—a world of vast chambers with brilliant walls, vaulted ceilings, marble and mosaic floors. And most of it breath-takingly superb in design and thoroughly beautiful in color.

Too grand indeed for the simple pattern of life today. And so we borrow actually very little except the inquiring spirit and the classic ideal from this Italian Renaissance period. Unless we strike oil or get rich quick some other way—and want to "knock 'em cold." Then we go back to this age of magnificence in Italy and try to recreate a setting made for a splendid ruthless era—before anybody had heard of liberty, equality, and the brotherhood of man. And of course such a background fits uneasily into the rhythm of a democratic day.

Miss Furlow Marries Mr. Brown At Ceremony in Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 31.—Miss Susie Elizabeth Furlow, of Atlanta, Ga., became the bride of Robert Wilson Brown, also of Atlanta, at a ceremony solemnized this afternoon at 5 o'clock at Trinity Episcopal church here.

Rev. Reno S. Harp performed the marriage service in the presence of an assemblage of friends and relatives of the bridal couple, and Mrs. Ruth Vanderlip presented a program of music.

The altar was beautified with cathedral candelabra holding white tapers. Baskets of white gladioli and baby's breath completed the lovely effect.

Ushers were Warren Fish and A. P. Brown. Edward Pennington Furlow, of Atlanta, brother of the bride, served as best man.

Miss June Harvey, of Atlanta, was maid of honor. She wore a bouffant gown of aquamarine marquisette, the bodice of which featured a square neckline and puffed sleeves. Yellow velvet ribbons trimmed the bodice, and a brief veil of aquamarine net adorned her hair. She carried a bouquet of Joanna Hill roses, tied with yellow satin ribbon.

Misses Ruth Wallace and Elizabeth Brown, sister of the groom, both of Atlanta, were bridesmaids, and they wore models fashioned like that of the maid of honor, and carried similar bouquets.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Calvin Edward Furlow. She was radiantly lovely in her wedding gown of white satin, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, puffed sleeves, and flared skirt. Her tulle veil fell from a cap trimmed with orange blossoms, and extended to the end of her satin train. Her only ornament was a string of pearls belonging to her mother, and she carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley, tied with white satin ribbon.

After the ceremony, the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Furlow, entertained at a reception for members of the immediate families and the wedding party. The lace-covered bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake surrounded by a profusion of white flowers. Silver candelsticks holding white tapers completed the appointments.

Mrs. Warren D. Fish assisted in entertaining.

The bride and groom left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, after which they will motor through New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Kentucky. Mrs. Brown wore for traveling a costume of black woolen with a tucked white blouse trimmed with dainty lace. A brief jacket completed her attire, which was worn with matching accessories. Her flowers were white roses and valley lilies.

After August 14 the couple will reside at 1605 Melrose drive, S. W., Sylvan Hills, in Atlanta.

"We were so worried about Junior's legs"

Mildred Elliott says: "It's wonderful to see young legs improve when their shoes are right and fitted right."

... Junior's mother said

"We were so proud of him, you see," she told us, "and naturally we wanted him to have straight, sturdy legs. We tried everything and nothing seemed to help. Then we brought him to you... and after that very first pair of corrective shoes we could see an improvement. Now his legs are as straight as arrows... due to the scientific fit and the very fine corrective shoes you gave him. I shall never cease to be grateful... to you."

And this is just one more of the "Little Foot Histories" that come to us each day... just another instance of "honest fit" winning us another friendly customer.

For those straight legs Junior (and his mother) should thank
